Public Protection in Edinburgh Annual Reports 2013-2014

Item number	7.4
Report number
Executive/routine
Wards	All

Executive summary

Edinburgh's Chief Officers' Group is responsible for the leadership, governance and performance management of the multi-agency aspects of public protection in Edinburgh.

Five committees/partnerships are established to manage performance and ensure the provision of quality services in relation to child protection, adult protection, offender management, alcohol and drugs and violence against women.

This report presents members with the annual reports for each of the five committees/partnerships in Edinburgh, which together oversee the main multi-agency public protection activity in the city.

Public Protection in Edinburgh Annual Reports 2013-14

Recommendations

1. It is recommended that Committee:
 - considers the annual reports from each of the public protection committees attached as Appendices 2 to 6
 - notes the importance of ensuring an integrated approach across the Council and between the Council and its key partners NHS Lothian, Police Scotland, the Scottish Fire and Rescue Service and voluntary sector organisations, to allow for effective, shared prioritisation for resource allocation; and
 - approves the Forced Marriage Policy and Practice Guidelines attached at Appendix 7.

Background

- 2.1 Edinburgh's Chief Officers' Group – Public Protection is made up of senior representatives from the Council, NHS Lothian and Police Scotland, and is currently chaired by the Council's Chief Executive.
- 2.2 The establishment of the Chief Officers' Group is consistent with Scottish Government guidance on the management of child protection; and its wider remit in Edinburgh reflects the essential inter-relationship between adult and child protection, the management of dangerous offenders, domestic abuse and drug and alcohol strategies.
- 2.3 Each of the Edinburgh public protection committees/partnerships reports to the Edinburgh Chief Officers' Group.
- 2.4 The multi-agency governance structure for public protection in Edinburgh is set out in Appendix 1.
- 2.5 The Chief Officers' Group has established a schedule of meetings throughout the year to consider its committees' business plans, quarterly performance information and annual reports.

- 2.6 Each of the five committees' annual reports is attached as a separate appendix to this report.

Main report

- 3.1 The agreed priorities in Edinburgh's multi-agency public protection strategy are to develop:
- an efficient data sharing system, which does not duplicate information and ensures appropriate access to all relevant information by all relevant staff
 - an integrated and consistent multi-agency assessment process for all protection services
 - an integrated, multi-agency strategy for:
 - alcohol and drugs
 - domestic abuse
 - adult and child protection and offender management improvement activity
 - a focus on early intervention, prevention and personalised services for all service user groups (adults and children)
 - improved integration of services and disciplines, both inter- and intra-agency
 - increased capacity for outcome focused, multi-agency quality assurance and contracts compliance systems
- 3.2 Five main committees oversee the multi-agency public protection related activity in Edinburgh:
- Child Protection Committee – chaired by Police Scotland
 - Adult Support and Protection Committee – chaired by NHS Lothian
 - Offender Management Committee – chaired by the City of Edinburgh Council
 - Drug and Alcohol Partnership – chaired by the City of Edinburgh Council
 - Violence Against Women Partnership – chaired by Police Scotland.
- 3.3 Each committee has an important role to play in the implementation of our agreed public protection strategy, and in addition, has developed performance reporting, business planning and annual reporting mechanisms to reflect its specific area of responsibility. Each committee has a similar structure of sub-committees covering staff training and development and quality assurance. There is one communications sub-committee covering the work of all committees.

Achievements and future actions

- 3.4 Achievements and areas for improvement and future actions are set out in detail in the committees'/partnerships' annual reports attached at Appendix 2 to 6. Listed below are examples for achievements and future actions for each committee/partnership.

Achievements

- 3.5 Edinburgh's public protection committees/partnerships have developed and launched the Speak Up – Speak Out campaign; a 3-year public awareness campaign, covering the key priorities for all areas of public protection. This is the most ambitious public awareness campaign undertaken in Edinburgh for public protection. The campaign was developed through extensive consultation with service users and communities, and has been recognised by the Scottish Parliament.
- 3.6 A Forced Marriage Policy and Practice Guidelines have been developed jointly by the Child Protection Committee and the Violence Against Women Partnership to inform and support the work of practitioners who are responsible for protecting children and adults from the abuse associated with forced marriage. The policy and practice guidelines are attached at Appendix 7.
- 3.7 The 2013, Care Inspectorate report of the Pilot Joint Inspection of Edinburgh's Children's Services stated that "the [Child Protection] Committee is very effective in improving processes and practices for protecting children and young people and its work integrates well with the Edinburgh Children's Partnership".
- 3.8 The Child Protection Committee facilitated for a group of young people who had been through the Child protection process were supported to develop three booklets in comic strip form, to reflect themes and issues identified by them and to support others. The booklets were then modelled by actors in order that they can be published and used.
- 3.9 The Adult Support and Protection Committee facilitated a single agency (social work) case file audit in November 2013. Areas of strength included increased attendance at case conferences by the service user, and a significant improvement in the 28 day standard from Inter-agency Referral Discussion to case conference. The target of 100% has been achieved for many months. There was evidence of good partnership working.
- 3.10 With regard to offender management, a case file audit carried out on all active MAPPA Level 1 cases managed by criminal justice social work provided evidence of strong partnership working at all stages, from assessment and risk management through to review. Almost all cases had evidence of positive outcomes for the person and of improvements in their circumstances. Case managers were taking a holistic approach to risk management, and helping people to address a range of issues so that they developed a more stable and safe lifestyle. Low levels of reoffending were reported.

- 3.12 The Alcohol and Drug Partnership facilitated school- and community based-prevention activities, including 276 outreach sessions and 111 alcohol brief interventions, together with the development of a “snapfax” leaflet in coproduction with young people, setting out key information and services around risk-taking behaviours.
- 3.14 Edinburgh’s Multi-agency Domestic Abuse Policy was agreed by the Corporate Policy and Strategy Committee and the Edinburgh Partnership in December 2013. The policy is a statement of commitment from all partners in Edinburgh and provides a set of guiding principles and definitions in relation to the prevention of domestic abuse, the support and protection of victims and the management of perpetrators. It is based on awareness of the extent and impact of domestic abuse and the belief shared by all partners that it is never acceptable and will not be tolerated.

Future actions

- 3.15 The work of practitioners who are responsible for protecting children and adults from the abuse associated with Female Genital Mutilation will be informed and supported jointly by the Child Protection Committee and the Violence Against Women Partnership.
- 3.16 The Child Protection Committee will develop a procedure supporting partner agencies in identifying and dealing with Child Sexual Exploitation on an inter-agency basis.
- 3.17 A local financial harm subgroup is being established through the Adult Support and Protection Committee to provide a strategic response to this type of harm, which represents a significant part of adult protection work and is a national priority.
- 3.18 New detailed Government guidance for the Multi-Agency Public Protection Arrangements (MAPPA) will be implemented in November 2014. A range of procedures, assessment, recording and minuting templates is being developed and the roll out will be supported by volume staff training from August 2014.
- 3.19 The Alcohol and Drug Partnership will develop an integrated pathway of care for children/young people with alcohol/drug problems. The Partnership is looking to develop an approach to enable the Licensing Board to make effective decisions about licensing policy, while addressing the concerns of protection services.

Edinburgh faces challenges in relation to alcohol-related problems similar to the rest of Scotland (47% of adults report drinking outwith Government guidelines; alcohol related harm costs an estimated £2.2 million to the public purse per year; at least 26% of serious assaults in public spaces and 23% in private spaces are alcohol related).

- 3.21 The Violence Against Women Partnership will raise awareness of Edinburgh's multi-agency domestic abuse policy and how the principles can be formalised in practice. In addition, a systemic review of the delivery of domestic abuse services will take place.

Measures of success

- 4.1 Edinburgh's Chief Officers' Group has continued to play a key role in bringing this related public protection activity together under its governance to ensure essential links are made at operational, tactical and strategic levels.
- 4.2 The Chief Officers' Group receives quarterly performance reports from the five committees/partnerships.
- 4.3 Work across all areas is underpinned by the Multi-agency Strategy for Public Protection in Edinburgh.

Financial impact

- 5.1 There are no financial implications arising from this report, however, public protection in Edinburgh is a significant responsibility for all partner agencies and one which demands considerable resource allocation.

Risk, policy, compliance and governance impact

- 6.1 In accordance with the Council's approach to risk management, the potential risk of harm to communities and individuals, which may be caused by a failure to provide effective care and protection to vulnerable children and adults is being mitigated and monitored through the Health and Social Care Risk Register.
- 6.2 This report seeks Committee approval for the Forced Marriage Policy and Practice Guidelines attached at Appendix 7.

Equalities impact

- 7.1 There is no direct equalities impact arising from this report.

Sustainability impact

8.1 There are no sustainability impact issues arising from this report.

Consultation and engagement

9.1 Where relevant, this is detailed within each of the annual reports.

Preface

All agencies in Edinburgh are committed to the development and continuous improvement of services for children. This is demonstrated by the joint approach at strategic and operational levels and re-enforced through the structural arrangements of the Children's Partnership, the Child Protection Committee and the Chief Officers' Group. Progress is continuing with our early intervention strategy through the implementation of Getting it Right for Every Child (GIRFEC) in Edinburgh.

As Chief Officers we fully appreciate the challenge of ensuring Edinburgh's children are safe as well as providing a platform from which all children in Edinburgh can reach their full potential. We have made good progress towards achieving our aims since the publication of the 2012-2013 annual report. This annual report reflects on the successes and ongoing areas of continuous improvement being pursued in partnership.

We are committed to the continuous improvement of our processes for multi-agency self-evaluation, performance monitoring and planning. We now have a fully integrated improvement plan, covering each identified area for improvement including those identified from self-evaluation, Significant Case Reviews and the 2012/2013 Care Inspectorate report, Services for Children and Young People in the City of Edinburgh: Report of a Pilot Joint Inspection.

As Chief Officers, we extend our appreciation for the continuing efforts of all agencies in Edinburgh working together to protect children and young people. This work is challenging and complex, however, it is an area in which we are committed to achieving excellence.

We endorse the contents of the Child Protection Committee annual report for 2013-2014.

Introduction

As we report on the activities of the Edinburgh Child Protection Committee for the period of 2013-2014, we reflect on the aims highlighted within the annual reports produced in previous years. We have seen significant changes in the way services work together to protect our children. The partnership of responsible agencies that make up Edinburgh's Child Protection Committee has a strong emphasis on continuous improvement.

This focus on improvement includes the recognition that the protection of children and adults at risk of harm and the management of the risk posed by violent offenders are cross-cutting and overlapping issues; none of which can be dealt with individually by any one agency, service or single-focus partnership. Although the Child Protection Committee, Adult Protection Committee, Offender Management Committee, Violence Against Women Partnership and Alcohol and Drug Partnership all have a core focus for their work, we recognise the dependence of individuals and communities on each of these partnerships working together seamlessly.

Our vision for the protection of children is articulated in the Integrated Plan for Children and Young People and the Single Outcome Agreement, together with our key strategic objectives. The Child Protection Committee remains determined to maximise our service provision and demonstrate improved outcomes for children across Edinburgh.

The format of our annual report remains consistent with the 2012-2013 report. The Committee wants to emphasise an outcome-focused approach, based on a clear understanding of need through evaluation. In producing this report cognisance has been taken of:

1. The functions of Child Protection Committees as set out in "Protecting Children and Young People: Child Protection Committees" January 2005.
2. The criteria specified in the European Foundation for Quality Management (EFQM) framework, namely the ability to specify our current position in areas such as leadership, strategy, policies and results whilst taking cognisance of the route to be taken to improve.
3. The Care Inspectorate Quality Indicators How well are we improving the lives of children and young people?
4. The revised Edinburgh and Lothians Inter-Agency Child Protection Procedures (2012).
5. The revised National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland (2014).

Demographics

Edinburgh is a city of contrasts, encompassing both urban and rural settings. The spectrum of social environments presents inherent challenges in delivering consistent services to all.

Within the city, 9.84% of data zones (Scottish Index of Multiple Deprivation) fall within the 15% most deprived areas of Scotland. The overall population for Edinburgh has continued to grow with a +37,690 rise in population from 2000-2010. The 2012 General Register Office mid-year estimate states that, with a population increase of +1.2%, along with Midlothian and East Lothian, Edinburgh has experienced the largest population increase in comparison to all other Scottish local authority areas. Approximately 15% of Edinburgh's population are under the age of 16.

A high proportion of pupils attend independent schools in Edinburgh, estimated at 25% in secondary schools, 14% in primary schools and 15% in special education provision.

Another feature of our city is the ethnic and cultural diversity, not only in terms of the local population, but also in terms of Edinburgh's short-term employment of young people in the tourist industry, as well as the transient tourist population.

Child Protection referrals increased from 1492 in 2012-2013 to 1610 in 2013-2014. The number of children with their names listed on the Child Protection Register has also seen an increase from 259 in 2012-2013 to 297 in 2013-2014. We have seen an increase in the number of Child Protection Case Conferences (CPCCs) in the period under review, with a total of 1360 CPCCs held in 2013-2014 against 1160 CPCCs held in 2012-2013.

Child Protection Committee Structure

The Edinburgh Child Protection Committee (the Committee) is made up of senior representatives from across all key areas concerned with the care and protection of children. Guidance issued by the Scottish Government requires every local authority area to have a Child Protection Committee.

Strong links exist between the Committee and the Edinburgh Children's Partnership (the Partnership). The vision for both the Committee and the Partnership is to ensure that all children and young people in Edinburgh enjoy being young and achieve their potential. They support us in achieving our vision, 6 strategic outcomes have been identified:

- Our children have the best start in life and are able to make and sustain relationships and are ready to succeed
- Our children are successful learners, confident individuals and responsible citizens making a positive contribution to their communities
- Our children in need or with a disability have improved life chances
- Our children are physically and emotionally healthy
- Our children are safe from harm or fear of harm and do not harm others within their communities
- Our children's outcomes are not undermined by poverty and inequality

We have identified particular priorities for children at risk:

- To increase the number of children who are safe within their own family, including extended family, and reduce the number of children who need to be subject to child protection arrangements
- To ensure that children in need of protection receive the help they need straight away

- To strengthen provision and outcomes for children with disabilities or additional support needs

In line with the GIRFEC well-being indicators, we have the aim of ensuring children and young people are safe, healthy, active, nurtured, achieving, responsible, respected and included. The Committee has a key role in achieving these aims along with the Partnership, recognising that the environment for some children in Edinburgh is more challenging, requiring additional measures to ensure children are protected from harm.

The governance of the Committee is the responsibility of the Edinburgh Chief Officers Group. The committee structure, membership list and remit are outlined in Appendix 1. The Committee meets every two months and has the following key responsibilities:

- Public Information
- Policies, Procedures and Protocols
- Management Information
- Quality Assurance
- Promotion of Good Practice
- Training
- Communication and Co-Operation
- Planning and Connections
- Listening to Children and Young People

The sub-committees of the Committee consist of the following (attached as appendix 2):

- Quality Assurance Sub Committee
- Learning and Development Sub Committee
- Joint Protection Committees Publicity Group

Edinburgh Child Protection Committee Functions

This section will be completed under the nine key headings from the Scottish Government's Protecting Children and Young People: Child Protection Committees (2005).

1. Public Information

The Committee is required to produce and disseminate public information relating to protecting children and young people. As such the Committee has developed, is implementing and regularly reviews a communications strategy that includes the following elements:

- Raising awareness of child protection issues within communities, including children and young people
- Promoting to the public at large the work of agencies in protecting children; and
- Providing information about where members of the public should go if they have concerns about a child and what could happen.

The Committee is also required to determine the level of public knowledge and confidence in child protection systems within their area and address any issues as required within business plans.

The Protection Committees Publicity Group fulfils this responsibility, with representation from the Edinburgh Child Protection Committee, the Edinburgh Adult Protection Committee, the Edinburgh Offender Management Committee, The Edinburgh Violence Against Women Partnership and the Edinburgh Alcohol and Drug Partnership. This group is chaired on a rota basis by one of the communications managers from the City of Edinburgh Council, NHS Lothian or Police Scotland.

Key Achievements

The Committee continues to produce and disseminate public information in relation to protecting children. Key achievements include:

- The development and launch of the Speak Up – Speak Out campaign; a 3-year public awareness campaign, covering the key priority areas for all areas of public protection. This is the most ambitious public awareness campaign undertaken in Edinburgh for public protection. It has enabled the public protection committees to identify and work together on areas of collaborative advantage, including on the areas of internet safety, substance misuse and domestic abuse.

- Extensive consultation and engagement with the public, service users and partner organisations, including the third sector.
- National media reach of the campaign, including television, press and radio.
- Recognition of the campaign by the Scottish Parliament.
- Through extensive consultation, including with children and young people, we have revised our approach to providing public protection information.
- An increase in referrals to Social Care Direct, which can be directly attributed to the Speak Up – Speak Out campaign.
- An increase in website traffic which can be attributed to the campaign.

Future Actions

Our joint priorities for the coming fiscal year have been set:

- Domestic abuse campaign for LGBT audience and men affected by domestic abuse
- Children affected by alcohol and substance misuse
- Harmful traditional practices (such as forced marriage, female genital mutilation and honour crimes)
- Self harm

In-depth research is to be undertaken to ensure the campaign materials and tools are meeting our objectives.

2. Policies, Procedures and Protocols:

The Committee:

- Supports constituent agencies to have in place their own up to date policies and procedures.
- Regularly develops, disseminates and reviews inter-agency policies and procedures.
- Ensure protocols are developed for key issues where agreement is required.

Key Achievements

The Committee is committed to developing, reviewing and implementing policies, procedures and protocols to achieve measurable outcomes for children. Key achievements include:

- Upgrade of the e-IRD system; an electronic means of recording Inter-Agency Referral Discussions on a shared pro-forma for both Child and Adult Protection. Improvements have included early GP notification and improved information security.
- A Forced Marriage policy has been developed to inform and support the work of practitioners who are responsible for protecting children and adults from the abuse associated with forced marriage. It outlines how practice in relation to forced marriage is aligned with existing structures, policies and procedures designed to protect children and adults with support needs and those experiencing domestic abuse.
- Implementation of the Edinburgh and Lothians Guidance Getting it Right for Children in Edinburgh affected by Parental Problem Alcohol and Drug Use, which replaces the Children Affected by Problem Substance Misuse guidance.
- The development of a joint Significant Case Review protocol for Edinburgh, covering Child Protection, Adult Protection and MAPPA.
- The committee contributed to the revision of the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland (2014).

- The replacement of the Joint Protocol which existed between Lothian and Borders Police and relevant 5 Local Authorities on children and young people missing from local authority care, with an Edinburgh focussed policy. This has introduced processes that encourage improved planning, communication, decision-making and risk assessment; better safeguarding those children and young people in Local Authority care.
- The 2013 Care Inspectorate report of the Pilot Joint Inspection stated that “the Committee is very effective in improving processes and practices for protecting children and young people and its work integrates well with the Edinburgh Children’s Partnership”.

Future Actions

This Committee will support the further revision of the Edinburgh and Lothians Inter-Agency Child Protection Procedures, in-line with the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland (2014) and the National Disability Toolkit (2014).

The Committee will develop a procedure in supporting the partner agencies in identifying and dealing with Child Sexual Exploitation on an inter-agency basis.

The Committee will lead on to inform and support the work of practitioners who are responsible for protecting children and adults from the abuse associated with Female Genital Mutilation.

3. Management Information

The Committee retains an overview of management information from all key agencies relating to the protection of children and young people. The Committee:

- Has an overview of information relating to children and young people on the Child Protection Register
- Receives regular management information reports, which include analysis of trends
- Identifies and address the implications of these management reports
- Ensures that management information informs the inter-agency child protection strategy.

Key Achievements

The Committee, through the Quality Assurance Sub Group, has invested in the creation of meaningful management and performance information. This is produced in the form of a balanced scorecard. Collecting and monitoring this information has impacted significantly on the service delivery and is contributing to Edinburgh's challenging improvement agenda. Key achievements include:

- Ongoing review and development of the balanced scorecard through the Quality Assurance Sub Group of the Committee to provide meaningful management information, which allows for service redesign to improve performance, delivery and outcomes.
- The quality indicators reported to the Quality Assurance Sub Group were subject to review at the 2013 ECPC development day. Following a subsequent exercise, the number of agreed indicators was reduced from 38 to 26. Of the remaining 12 indicators, those that are still relevant are covered through other reporting arrangements and governance structures. The indicators are now reported to inform thematic discussion.

- The revision and development of the Child Protection Improvement Plan.
- A self-evaluation process linked to the Care Inspectorate quality indicators and the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland (2010).

Future Actions

The Committee will ensure that relevant and robust management information is collated to enable continuous improvement in Edinburgh.

Detailed scrutiny of the performance indicators will be undertaken on a 6-monthly basis, with thematic reviews bi-monthly.

The Quality Assurance Sub Group will identify existing performance indicators to align with the outcomes of the Child Protection Improvement Plan and agree additional impact and qualitative indicators.

In line with reporting arrangements to the Edinburgh Children's Partnership, through the Strategic Outcome Group performance briefings, the lead officer(s) for actions in the improvement plan will present updates to the Quality Assurance Sub Group at prescribed intervals; with each theme (high level question) being considered twice in each 12 month period.

The Child Protection Improvement Plan will be updated every two months and submitted to the ECPC quarterly.

4. Quality Assurance

Whilst individual agencies have responsibility for the quality assurance of their own service, the Committee has responsibility for the development and implementation of inter-agency quality assurance mechanisms. The Committee:

- Agrees, implement and review multi-agency quality assurance mechanisms for inter-agency work, including auditing against the framework for standards.
- Ensures that the quality assurance mechanisms directly contribute to the continuous improvement of services to protect children and young people.
- Contributes to the preparation for the integrated system of inspection of children's services.
- Considers the findings and lessons from inspection on a national basis.
- Co-ordinates significant case reviews as necessary.
- Reports on the outcome of the quality assurance processes and make recommendations to the Committee and the Chief Officers Group.

Key Achievements

The Committee's quality assurance systems have played a key role in our performance improvements. The Quality Assurance Sub Group monitors performance on a monthly basis and makes recommendations for improvement activity to the Committee and to individual partner agencies. This in-turn is monitored by the multi-agency Public Protection Chief Officers' Group.

Key achievements in the area of quality assurance include:

- Further development and roll-out of independent advocacy services for children and young people involved in the child protection process.
- Further development of the e IRD system; to include improved functionality, data protection and system interrogation,

- Revised methodology for undertaking Significant Case Reviews, accounting for recent research developments, including engaging with staff and family members.
- Improved Quality Assurance processes for Child Protection Case Conferences.
- The further development of IRD review group workshops, to ensure that those undertaking IRDs are aware of emerging themes, good practice and areas for development.
- The maintenance of a position statement for Strategic Outcome Group 5, ensuring that we remain aware of achievements, as well as ongoing areas for development.

Future Actions

The Committee is dedicated to the continuous improvement of child protection services and intends to build on the performance management mechanism by designing a robust continuous process of self-evaluation, feeding into the developing public protection framework. This will support the development of clearly defined and measurable outcomes for vulnerable, or at risk, people and it will supplement our multi-agency improvement plans.

5. Promotion of Good Practice

The Committee has the responsibility to identify and promote good practice, address areas for improvement and encourage learning. The Committee:

- Identifies and disseminate lessons from practice, including the review of significant cases.
- Ensures that practice issues directly inform training and staff development.
- Identifies opportunities to share good practice across a wide spectrum whether locally, regionally or nationally.

Key Achievements

The Committee routinely seeks opportunities to identify and promote good practice in child protection, whether locally, further afield within the Edinburgh, Lothians and Borders Executive Group area and nationally. Key achievements in this area include:

- The ongoing implementation of GIRFEC in Edinburgh.
- Strong links with the Scottish Government Policy team and the national Child Protection Coordinator, based at WithScotland. This has included involvement in the refresh of the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland (2014).
- Increased learning and development activity to reflect identified needs of our multi-agency workforce (such as court skills training).
- The development of opportunities to learn from good practice across the country, through involvement with the Children's Commissioner, WithScotland, the National Lead Officers network and the Scottish Child Protection Committee Chairs Forum.

- Targeted briefings to share learning from published Significant Case Reviews.

Future Actions

Exemplars of good practice will be highlighted and disseminated following the conclusion of each aspect of self-evaluation.

Ensure that practice issues are identified as part of self-evaluation activity and that any identified issues are taken forward in our learning and development strategy.

6. Training and Staff Development

Training and staff development for those working with children and families must be undertaken at both a single agency and inter-agency level, particularly in respect of child protection. The Committee is responsible for promoting, commissioning and assuring the quality and delivery of inter-agency training. The Committee:

- Retains an overview of single agency child protection training and consider the implications of inter-agency training.
- Plans, review and quality assure inter-agency training and development activities.
- Implements and review annually, a programme for inter-agency child protection training.
- Ensures relevant and consistent inter-agency training is provided for practitioners, managers, non-statutory agencies and Child Protection Committee members.

Key Achievements

Learning and development is a key activity in the development of a confident and competent workforce for the delivery of high quality services to protect children and young people. The three core agencies of health, social work and police have invested in a tripartite Learning and development budget for the delivery of inter-agency training across Edinburgh. Key achievements include:

- The development of an inter-agency learning and development strategy, with materials to meet the needs of statutory and non-statutory agencies.
- The maintenance of a dedicated budget to enable Edinburgh to meet the demands of inter-agency learning and development across organisational boundaries.
- The ongoing delivery of training at various levels across Edinburgh, meeting the needs of practitioners, managers and child protection specialists.

- Continuing to incorporate GIRFEC principles into child protection training to meet the needs of practitioners.
- Multi-agency input into the development of specialist events on neglect and child sexual abuse.
- Joint Investigative Interview courses and refresher training delivered with the support of tutors from across the ELBEG area.
- The delivery of bespoke joint Public Protection training to a total of 1244 Services for Communities staff over 21 training days.
- The delivery of training in working effectively with families who are evasive or resistant to engage.
- The creation of e learning packages, on the new Getting it Right for Children in Edinburgh affected by Parental Problem Alcohol and Drug Use guidance, which replaces the Children Affected by Problem Substance Misuse guidance.

Future Actions

Further opportunities will be explored to share training opportunities with Edinburgh's other public protection committees and voluntary sector partners.

Implement a Level 1 awareness raising session to cover Adult Protection, Child Protection and Domestic Abuse.

7. Communication and Co-operation

Effective communication and co-operation, both within agencies and between professionals, is essential to the protection of children. The Committee:

- Demonstrates effective communication and co-operation at Child Protection Committee level.
- Actively promotes effective communication and collaboration between agencies.
- Identifies and, whenever possible, resolve any issues between agencies in relation to the protection of children and young people.
- Demonstrates effective communication across the inter-agency spectrum.
- Identifies opportunities to share knowledge, skills and learning with other Public Protection Committees.

Key Achievements

The Committee continues to have representation from all key agencies involved with children and families from the statutory and voluntary sector.

Through the continued implementation of the communication strategy, the Committee aims to enhance interaction between agencies. Key achievements in the area of communication and co-operation include:

- The revision of the Public Protection Committees communication strategy.
- The work of the joint Public Protection Committees Publicity Group in the planning, coordination and launch of the Public Awareness Campaign.
- The successful delivery on the first two areas of key priority for the public awareness campaign:
 - Domestic Abuse
 - Safe Use of Social Media

- The continued close links with the Children's Partnership. The Committee chair and Lead Officer now sit as members of the Partnership. The 2013 Care Inspectorate report of the Pilot Joint Inspection notes that the work of the Committee integrates well with the Edinburgh Children's Partnership.
- The continued pro-active interaction with neighbouring Child Protection Committees enabling the sharing of practice and learning opportunities.
- The sharing of learning and best practice through WithScotland, the Scottish Government, the national Lead Officers network and Scottish Child Protection Committee Chairs Forum.
- The maintenance of the Child Protection Case Conference dispute resolution arrangements.
- The maintenance of the IRD review group to quality assure decisions and actions taken at IRD on a multi-agency basis.
- Increased third sector representation on the committee and sub-committees.

Future Actions

There is a commitment to ongoing active participation and representation with Scottish Government Child Protection Policy team, WithScotland, the National Lead Officers network and the Scottish Child Protection Committee Chairs Forum.

There is an ongoing commitment from the partner agencies to deliver on the actions laid out in the Child Protection Improvement Plan, which will include a significant level of sharing of knowledge and expertise and partnership working.

8. Planning and Connections

The Committee links into a number of multi-agency structures and ensures relationships are robust and productive. The Committee:

- Clearly identifies the key links with other bodies and ensure such links are strong and productive.
- In conjunction with other bodies, identifies issues where joint working would be beneficial or duplication could be avoided and ensure that action is taken to address these issues.
- Implements and regularly review the effectiveness of joint protocols linked to child protection.

Key Achievements

The Committee recognises the need to build strong links to multi-agency partnerships and to ensure a collaborative and collective approach in relation to child protection activities. Key achievements include:

- The continued interaction of the Chief Officers Group within Edinburgh, providing a clear public protection governance structure for child protection, adult protection, domestic abuse and offender management.
- Strong links with the Edinburgh Children's Partnership.
- The interaction of the Committee Chair and Lead Officer at a national level through the national Lead Officers network and the Scottish Child Protection Committee Chairs Forum.
- Pro-active interaction with neighbouring Child Protection Committees.
- Ongoing liaison with the Care Inspectorate link inspector.
- The Committee were represented on the group responsible for the refresh of the National Guidance for Child Protection in Scotland (2010), the Refresh on the national guidance for conducting Significant Case Reviews and contributed to revision of the 'Getting Our Priorities Right' document.

Future Actions

Through ongoing links with academic institutions, the Scottish Child Protection Committee Chairs Forum, the National Lead Officers network, WithScotland and the Scottish Government, the Committee will continue to contribute to national discussions and consultations.

The Committee is continuing to work closely with the other public protection committees and the alcohol and drug partnership to explore opportunities for joint working, sharing of resources and to avoid duplication of work.

9. Listening to Children and Young People

The Committee recognises the need to ensure children and young people are engaged in the development of services and the dissemination of public information. The Committee:

- Ensures work is informed by feedback from children and young people.
- Engages with children and young people in the development and implementation of public information and communication strategies.

Key Achievements

Work conducted during the period of 2013-2014 demonstrates the value placed on the involvement of children and young people. Key achievements include:

- Recognition through the Child Protection Improvement Plan that interaction with children and young people is key to understanding need and achieving positive outcomes.
- Improved independent advocacy services for children and young people in the child protection process, provided by Barnardo's Scotland.
- A group of young people who had been through the Child protection process were supported to develop three booklets in comic strip form, to reflect themes and issues identified by them and to support others. The booklets were then modelled by actors in order that they can be published and used.
- Children and young people from Drummond Community High School and Dalry Primary School have been extensively consulted during the development of the Speak Up – Speak Out public protection awareness campaign and were actively involved in the development of campaign materials.
- Over 200 of Edinburgh's school pupils took part in a competition for Safer Internet Day 2014, on the subject of making the internet a safer place. Some entries were used in the Speak Up – Speak Out campaign.

Future Actions

Interpret the findings from engagement activities in a meaningful way to inform continued improvement and service planning.

Conclusions

The Edinburgh Child Protection Committee annual report for 2013-2014 is designed to demonstrate the key role of the Committee in ensuring that the inter-agency response to the protection of Edinburgh's children is cohesive, structured and working towards continuous improvement. The report summarises some of our key achievements throughout the period under review.

We are clear, however, that despite a number of successes to date, we are on a journey of increasing our self-awareness and of continuous learning and improvement. We maintain close working relationships with all agencies in the statutory, voluntary and independent sectors and are determined to ensure we retain an outcome-focused approach to child protection matters.

Whilst we acknowledge the range of challenges we face, we are enthusiastic about the opportunities ahead. The 2014-2016 Child Protection Improvement Plan will continue to focus on our key priority areas for development.

Appendix 3 – Child Protection Register Statistics

Appendix 1 - Child Protection Committee Structural Schematic and Membership list:

Appendix 2 – Remit and Membership of Committee Sub Group structure Edinburgh Child Protection Committee Quality Assurance Sub- Committee

Purpose

1. To operate a quality assurance framework that allows the Child Protection Committee to monitor the effectiveness of local child protection services.
2. To operate a performance reporting framework and a system for self-evaluation in support of the above.
3. To implement a system of regular multi-agency case file reviews.
4. To oversee significant case reviews, commissioned by the Child Protection Committee; and to consider appropriate recommendations to the Child Protection Committee.
5. To monitor the implementation of any recommendations arising from reviews agreed by the Child Protection Committee.
6. To develop multi-agency improvement plans in response to external inspection reports or internal assessment processes.
7. To monitor the progress of member agencies' implementation of agreed improvement plans.

Membership

Membership will include representation from the following agencies/ services:

- NHS Lothian / Edinburgh Community Health Partnership
- Police Scotland
- Department of Children and Families
- Department of Health and Social Care
- Scottish Children's Reporter Administration
- Lead Officer – Child Protection

Input from the voluntary sector representative on the Child Protection Committee will be sought as appropriate. Officers from other services/agencies may be co-opted onto the sub-group as required, subject to the approval of the relevant agency.

Meetings

The sub-group will meet at a frequency determined by the requirements of the agreed tasks, but not normally less frequently than the Child Protection Committee.

Meetings will be minuted and will be reported to the Child Protection Committee.

Edinburgh Child Protection Committee Learning and Development Sub-Committee

Purpose

- 1 To develop a learning and development strategy that allows the Child Protection Committee to monitor the effectiveness of child protection training across the agencies.
- 2 To coordinate the training strategy within member agencies.
- 3 To develop a system for delivering multi-agency training and evaluating its effectiveness.
- 4 To oversee the training needs of the voluntary sector.
- 5 To develop multi-agency improvement plans in response to external inspection reports or internal assessment processes.
- 6 To monitor the progress of member agencies' implementation of agreed improvement plans.
- 7 To liaise with the other subgroups of the Child Protection Committee in order to avoid duplication of work.

Meetings

The sub-group will meet at a frequency determined by the requirements of the agreed tasks, but not normally less frequently than the Child Protection Committee.

Meetings will be minuted and will be reported to the Child Protection Committee.

Membership

Membership will include representation from the following agencies/ services:

- NHS Lothian
- Police Scotland
- City of Edinburgh Council (Children and Families)
- City of Edinburgh Council (Health and Social Care)
- City of Edinburgh Council (Services for Communities)
- Voluntary sector
- Lead Officer – Child Protection

Edinburgh Public Protection Committees Communications Sub- Group

Purpose

A planned and co-coordinated communications strategy is needed to

1. Raise public awareness of child protection issues and services
2. Establish a system to share information and communicate effectively with and between agencies and staff at all levels to raise awareness of child protection issues (includes ECPC Newsletter)
3. Share best practice examples (includes producing leaflets)

Membership

Membership will include representation from the following agencies/ services:

- NHS Lothian
- Police Scotland
- City of Edinburgh Council (Children and Families)
- City of Edinburgh Council (Health and Social Care)
- Voluntary Sector
- Lead Officer – Child Protection

Officers from other services/agencies may be co-opted onto the sub-group as required, subject to the approval of the relevant agency.

Meetings

The sub-group will meet at a frequency determined by the requirements of the agreed tasks. This will normally consist of monthly meetings.

Meetings will be minuted and will be reported to the Child Protection Committee

1. Introduction

The Edinburgh Adult Protection Committee (the Committee) is a multi-agency body established under the terms of the Adult Support and Protection (Scotland) Act 2007 to ensure a coordinated approach to the protection of adults within the City of Edinburgh.

The Committee meets bi-monthly with administrative support provided by the protection committees' (child, adult and offender management) administrator.

Members of the Committee include those with a statutory responsibility for safeguarding adults in Edinburgh namely:

The City of Edinburgh Council:

- Department of Health and Social Care (including Criminal Justice)
- Department of Services for Communities
- Department of Children and Families

NHS Lothian

Police Scotland

Scottish Fire and Rescue Service

Edinburgh Voluntary Organisation Council

The Committee has three multi-agency subgroups:

- Quality Assurance subgroup
- Learning and Development subgroup
- Public Protection Committees Publicity subgroup

All three have representation from across the partnership agencies and the independent sector.

The Committee held a development afternoon in April. The aim of the day was to review the structure, performance and effectiveness of the Committee in preparation for the forthcoming inspection of adult care services in 2015.

One of the main themes emerging from the day was the need for the Committee to develop clear vision and direction of travel with a sense of shared ownership and responsibility of the agreed priorities. In addition members identified the need for a broader approach to quality assurance and a comprehensive framework of self evaluation, service user feedback, practice evaluation and benchmarking with other Committees.

2. Public Information

The Committee promotes the awareness of multi-agency public protection issues. It will:

- communicate with public, professionals, staff and stakeholders
- overcome barriers to seeking help
- educate about harm
- tell people where to get help

Achievements

(Campaign Evaluation Report - Appendix 1)

The 'Speak Up, Speak Out' publicity campaign has had a highly successful first year with commendation in Parliament and nomination for national media awards.

- The campaign has been designed using a co-productive method, guided by the results arising from thorough testing of content and design with target audiences, including older people, children from a wide age range, and people who use disability services, as well as staff from across the Partnership
- In eight months we have successfully launched four of the mini campaigns that form part of the overall campaign
- We have achieved a wide distribution and subsequent use of all our materials across the city in public service points in statutory, voluntary and private sectors (from GP surgeries to community centres to supermarket pharmacies)
- We have monitored the calls to help-lines and have noted a significant increase as a result of the campaign
- Articles with case examples of good practice were placed in the Home Care and Housing Providers' Commissioning Team newsletters.

Future Action

The Speak up Speak out campaign's communications strategy places great emphasis on engagement. It was documented from the earliest workshop sessions that a poster and leaflet campaign would not work for public protection and engagement is critical to success, particularly when communicating with such a wide and vulnerable/hard to reach audience.

Engagement (community and stakeholder engagement) means developing a two-way relationship including going out into the community to meet residents, stakeholders and key organisations. This normally takes the form of face to face communications including road shows and other relationship building activities with community groups and voluntary organisations

These campaign priorities have been put forward for Year 2 (2014-2015):

- harmful traditional practices (such as forced marriage, female genital mutilation and honour crimes)
- self harm
- legal highs.

3. Performance Management Information

The Committee will receive from the Quality Assurance subgroup a performance management report, and note any actions being recommended by the group to address identified performance issues.

The Quality Assurance subgroup will provide the Committee with an overview of management information and statistics relating to adult protection activity. This includes analysis of trends to inform strategic planning and operational improvement.

	2010-11	2011-12	2012-13	2013-14
Adult protection referrals	1,008	743	422	435
Large scale AP contacts			78	139
Incidents between service users			493	342
Inter-agency referral discussions (IRD)	485	378	215	193
IRD as a percentage of referrals	48%	51%	51%	44%
Adult protection initial case conferences	117	74	60	54
Initial case conferences as a percentage of IRD	24%	20%	28%	28%
Adult protection case conference reviews	162	126	98	99

The above table reflects the continuing discussion about identifying cases with adult protection concerns as separate from other cases where concerns are raised for vulnerable people. In 2012-13, separation of large scale adult protection cases and incidents between service users was implemented which resulted in a drop in Adult protection contacts.

The proportion of Adult protection concern referrals which progress to interagency referral discussion (IRD) is similar across the four years (around 48%) as is the percentage of cases going onto case conference following an IRD (around 25%).

Achievements

- The national dataset (one of the five Scottish Government priorities) work stream has begun the testing phase of the data collection tool. Edinburgh has contributed to this work and will be providing the requisite information for the trial period 1 April 2014 to 30 June 2014

The Main research questions the national data collection will be able to answer are:

- How many adults are 'at risk of harm' (as defined by the act) at any one time in Scotland?
- What percentage of referrals made initially to the councils are then adults 'at risk of harm' (as defined by the Act)?
- Are the organisations listed in the Act ensuring the necessary referrals are made to the councils as per their obligations in section 5(3) of the Act?
- What percentage of the adults 'at risk of harm' received support and protection via of the Protection Orders?

Future Action

The new Police Scotland Vulnerable Persons Database is a national tool, accessible to police officers across Scotland and will include information on all vulnerable adults and children, domestic abuse and hate crime. As such it will inform public protection work. The VPD will increase adult protection referrals and so data collection systems will be adjusted to take account of an increase of Police contacts.

4. Policy and Procedures

The Committee will ensure that all staff are aware of and work to adult protection policies and procedures. It will respond to the changing adult protection landscape, new legislative and national strategies by developing appropriate policy and staff guidance.

Achievements

- In collaboration with protection partners practice guidance for staff seeking to support individuals at risk from forced marriage has been developed. This has been informed by the experience of the first interim forced marriage order in relation to an adult at risk.
- The Committee seeks to promote the principles of service user choice and positive risk taking through supporting the implementation of self directed support. This has been achieved through the augmentation of the risk management policy and assessment tool.
- The Edinburgh Adult Protection Committee facilitated a disclosure of personal information workshop. This well-attended event looked at the legal and ethical dilemmas of confidentiality and information sharing within the adult protection arena.

Practitioners understand that in public protection, the right to privacy, confidentiality and data protection can be overridden in certain circumstances. Agencies working in this field have begun to appreciate the necessity for proportionate and relevant information sharing. However those working in the field of adult protection have experienced operational challenges with the disclosure of personal information. Issues of proportionality and the need to balance a person's right to privacy with another person's right to make an informed choice about keeping himself safe are being debated.

Practice guidance is being developed which will include information about the Key Expert Contacts. This work will be linked with a national information sharing event later in the year.

- The Commonwealth Games organisers met with the child and adult protection lead officers of the authorities in which events will be held. Edinburgh's commonwealth pool is being used for diving events and the Queen's Baton relay will come through the City. As some of the competitors and many of the volunteers will be children, young people and adults with disabilities, the organisers wished to discuss protection policies, safe recruitment processes, staff training and reporting methods.

It was envisaged that 'Glasgow 2014' volunteers will make known any concerns to a Police Officer and referrals will be routed that way as opposed to equipping volunteers with what in some areas could be several phone numbers. It was agreed that the Police Scotland (101) number would also be visible as a national point of contact

5. Quality Assurance and Practice Improvement

The Committee will identify areas for improvement and build on current good practice through self evaluation and learning from Significant Case Reviews, Mental Welfare Commission investigations and Large Scale Inquiries.

Achievements

- The Scottish Government has identified Accident and Emergency (A&E) as one of the 5 priority areas. There have been concerns about the engagement of the NHS in adult protection in general and the small number of Adult Protection referrals from the NHS and specifically from A&E settings.

Two audits were undertaken at Edinburgh Royal Infirmary A&E in August 2013 and January 2014 to determine whether patients who were identified as "frequent attenders" (5 times in 3 months, 10 times in 12 months) were also adults at risk of harm as defined by the Adult Support and Protection (Scotland) Act 2007. A follow up audit was undertaken of A&E attenders (not frequent attenders) in February 2014. (A&E report - Appendix 2)

It is the view of the reviewing group that the 'frequent attender' process of flagging up and reviewing repeat presentations may mean that the complex needs of these individuals are already well considered and health and social care partners are already identified and involved. Social Work seniors are now contributing to the monthly 'frequent attenders' meeting. This enhances the quality of the information and the range of support measures which can be provided to an individual.

A high proportion of the reviewed cases repeatedly presented with alcohol and other substance misuse and with self harming behaviour. Many of these patients were known to the Mental Health Assessment Service (MHAS) but not necessarily to social work services. A further audit is planned of individuals presenting at Mental Health Assessment Service. 126 Emergency Department professionals have attended Adult Support and Protection training.

- Criminal Justice Services are becoming increasingly involved in adult protection activity, with practice teams beginning to undertake council officer duties and functions. The Offender Management Quality Assurance Sub Committee is now aligned with the Adult Protection Quality Assurance Sub Committee.
- The Council-led Suicide Reference group has been meeting regularly. Review Facilitators have been identified. A process flowchart and letter templates have been developed. Links have been made with Services for Communities and the Mental Health (and substance misuse) Suicide Review Team.
- A single agency (social work) case file audit was undertaken in November 2013. Areas of strength were increased attendance at case conference by the service user and a significant improvement in the 28 day standard from IRD to case conference. The target of 100% has been achieved for many months. There was also evidence of good partnership working. Areas for development include greater use of risk assessment and risk management tools and a need to consider of advocacy in the Adult Support and Protection process.

Future Action

- An integrated model of self evaluation will be implemented across all partner agencies in order to provide a clear frame of reference when seeking evidence of positive outcomes and the overall quality of service delivery within public protection.

A Public Protection Self Evaluation Group has been formed. This group includes the lead officers for child protection, adult protection and domestic abuse, together with representatives from NHS Lothian, Police Scotland, the Scottish Children's Reporter Administration, Edinburgh Alcohol and Drugs Partnership and relevant Council services.

The primary objective of the model is to provide an opportunity for practitioners and professionals to evaluate and reflect on practice and consider how effectively they work together and how they record and evidence outcomes.

- The Committee contributes to the work of the Self Harm and Safe Place Group. This group is championing the creation of a dedicated Place of Safety within the redesign of the Royal Edinburgh Hospital. This Place of Safety would provide a place to assess individuals detained under S297 of the Mental Health (Care and Treatment) Act 2003.

The working group is also exploring a 'street triage' pilot where police and nurses would work together to assess people where they are. Work is underway to identify sources of funding for this. The pilot would be based on similar arrangements in England.

6. Service Users and Carers

The Committee will find meaningful ways to capture the views of service users and carers in the work of the Committee. The Committee will enhance service user involvement in the adult support and protection case conference process.

Achievements

- Council officers use the Edinburgh accessible templates and toolkits to facilitate service user involvement in the adult support and protection process and to enable their views to be expressed at the case conference.
- The 2011 case file audit found that in 64% of cases, the individual was invited to attend their case conferences. In an October 2013 audit, this had increased to 89%.
- Service users and carers were involved in the development and testing of publicity campaign materials.
- Independent Advocacy agencies contribute to Adult Support and Protection training which raises the awareness of the duty to consider independent advocacy for adults at risk of harm.

Future Action

Through the self evaluation process and service user surveys, the Committee will seek to further capture the views of service users about their experience of the adult support and protection process.

7. Training and Staff Development

The Committee will improve the skills and knowledge of staff providing services to adults at risk appropriate to their role and level of responsibility.

Achievements

- The Adult Protection Learning and Development team continue to deliver multi-level and multi-agency training to the workforce. In addition, focussed inputs are provided for specialised services across the partnership and third sector agencies. (Learning and Development - Appendix 3)
- The adult protection lead within the Council workforce development team is involved in the designing and delivery of the self directed support training modules for assessment staff. The objective is to promote the principles of service user choice and positive risk taking but which includes an awareness of protection issues in relation to the employment and management of personal assistants.
- Support the attendance by staff from Services for Communities, independent sector and the Scottish Prison Service at adult support and protection training.
- Input to undergraduate nursing education and mental health officer training programme.

Future Action

Further opportunities will be explored to share training opportunities with Edinburgh's other public protection committees and voluntary sector partners.

The experience of a Recent Forced marriage Order will be shared with other public protection areas in Lothian.

8. Communication and Collaboration

The Committee will ensure effective multi-agency cooperation and information sharing arrangements.

Achievements

- The Committee held a Disclosure of Personal Information afternoon in December 2013. This well-attended event looked at the legal and ethical dilemmas of confidentiality and information sharing within the adult protection arena. Practice guidance is being developed which will include information about the key expert Contacts.
- A multi-agency Escalating Concerns Group pilot began in March 2014. The objective is to provide a platform to discuss those cases which present extraordinary challenges to the public partner agencies, where individual agencies have exhausted all known options and where a collaborative approach would be beneficial. This pilot is being evaluated with findings presented to the Adult Protection Committee and Chief Officers' Group.
- A Capacity Indicator Screening Tool Pilot was conducted in two areas (South East and North East Edinburgh). The aim was to improve confidence of social work staff in making professional judgements about individuals' ability to making specific decisions. 19 Capacity Indicator screening tools were used (mainly between Jan – May 2014).

Social workers report the benefits of the tool. It has provided a useful framework within which to consider the decision making process and a means to demonstrate to capacity judgements can be made.

- The National Scams Hub (NSH) is a project funded by the National Trading Standards Board and hosted by East Sussex Trading Standards Service. It began in 2011, after a list of scam mail victims was recovered by the Metropolitan Police. People on the list are likely to have been contacted as part of organised and targeted scams. It is thought that many of those on this list will be unaware that they may have been defrauded.

The National East Sussex Trading Standards Service disseminated information from the list to Scottish Local Authorities (trading Standards) for action.

The Adult Protection lead officer, Trading Standards Manager and Police Scotland collaborated to provide a response appropriate to the people's circumstances and to ensure that information advice and support is given to prevent further harm.

Future Actions

- Financial harm plays a significant part of adult protection work and is a national priority for the Scottish Government. The lead officer is setting up a local financial harm subgroup to provide a strategic response to this type of harm.

The aim would be to develop standard protocols and information sharing templates as well as identifying future priorities, public awareness campaigns and training needs.

Membership will include representatives from local financial institutions, the Council's Trading Standards Manager and Sandra Mc Donald from the Office of the Public Guardian. Chief Inspector Ronnie Megaughin, (Safer Communities) Police Scotland has offered to attend the first meeting.

Council Trading Standards have been provided with 10 'TrueCall' call blockers courtesy of COSLA for use in assisting people potentially at risk of financial harm from nuisance calls and scams. These items will be 'loaned' to Edinburgh residents and the information will also be monitored for further enforcement action where possible. Those who would benefit most from this support will be identified through the adult support and protection process. Another Council has managed to secure funding for a further 100 call blockers because they were able to demonstrate that in some cases, it increased independence and delayed an admission to a care home. We are hopeful that a study of the initial 10 will provide similar results so that we can seek funding for more units.

- The Committee will continue to contribute to national consultations and Scottish Government work groups through links with the national Adult Protection Committee Chairs group, the national Lead Officers network and the national Adult Protection Forum.
- The Committee is continuing to work closely with the other public protection committees, the Violence against Women Partnership and the Alcohol and Drug Partnership to explore opportunities for joint working, sharing of resources and to avoid duplication of work.

9. Summary and Conclusion

The Edinburgh Adult Protection Committee Annual Report 2013-2014 is designed to demonstrate the active and inclusive inter-agency work of the Committee and its ability to respond to emerging needs and to the protection of adults in Edinburgh.

We are clear, however, that despite a number of achievements to date, we are on a continuous journey of self-evaluation, learning and improvement. We maintain close working relationships with all agencies in the statutory, voluntary and independent sectors and are determined to ensure we retain an outcome-focused approach to adult protection matters.

Speak up Speak out Public Protection Campaign

Year 1 (2013-14) Report and Year 2 (2014-15) Plan

For review and development of Year 2 strategy at the early summer meeting of the Public Protection Committee Publicity Sub-group

This report provides an evaluation and analysis of 2013-14 activities and recommendations for 2014-15 activities.

1. EVALUATION OF SPEAK UP SPEAK OUT YEAR 1 (2013-2014) ACTIVITIES

We have yet to complete a full analysis as we are in the early stages of the three year campaign. However, we know the Speak up Speak out campaign is both working and making a difference.

Campaign evaluation centres around these metrics:

- awareness, for example web views, media coverage, number of organisations displaying materials
- attitude, eg positive comments and feedback from organisations, through social media and media.
- engagement, eg social media retweets/comments and stakeholders promoting the campaign to their audience
- behaviour, eg responding to calls to action by increasing calls to SCD, police etc

Evaluation for this type of campaign can be difficult as we are dealing with sensitive issues and a vulnerable audience. However, we have been able to prove the campaign's success in terms of telephone calls to the Council's Social Care Direct service, web analytics and social media reach.

Speak up Speak out has received positive feedback from the majority of quarters, including congratulations from the Scottish Parliament. The only negative comments or suggestions for improvements have been from organisations representing BME and LGBT communities, which need more customised communications, and one from the governing body for private care homes. All feedback has been used positively and LGBT and BME audiences will be addressed in the 2014-15 campaign phases and by development of a toolkit.

Anecdotal evidence shows that materials are being seen across the city and awareness levels are high. These statistics prove that the campaign is achieving its objectives of affecting behaviour, increasing awareness and engagement and generating a positive attitude:

1.1 Call to action - Social Care Direct call levels

There have been a total of 104 calls to the end of March 2014. The calls can be broken down by months/campaigns:

Mini-campaign	Month	Calls*
Phase 1: Older people	Aug-13	9
Phase 1: Older people	Sep-13	16
Phase 2: General campaign	Oct-13	21
Phase 2: General campaign
Phase 3: Domestic abuse from 25-Nov 	Nov-13	16
Phase 3: Domestic abuse 	Dec-13	2
Phase 3: Domestic abuse 	Jan-14	21
Phase 4: Keeping safe online and on your phone 	Feb-14	19
Phase 4: Keeping safe online and on your phone 	Mar-14	0
Phase 4: Keeping safe online and on your phone 	Apr-14
		104

* Callers mentioned the campaign mentioned the campaign when asked “what made you call today?”

 The SCD number has been promoted in only two of the four mini-campaigns – older people campaign and general campaign.

The number for Edinburgh Women’s Aid was promoted for the domestic abuse campaign and a variety of numbers promoted for the internet/social media safety campaign.

Clicks from the shortened URL (<http://bit.ly/1aELeaA>) accounted for 46 of these page views. An additional 11 views came from other shortened links – most likely created by Neighbourhood Offices. Of those 46 page views, 23 accessed via Twitter and 23 from the QR code on campaign posters.

1.3 Online coverage

Online coverage has increased with each mini-campaign.

Phase 1: older people campaign	7
Phase 2: general	12
Phase 3: domestic abuse	28
Phase 4: keeping safe online and on your phone	35

Again this shows the power of engagement and reflects the number of organisations willing to publicise the campaign using their communication channels.

The campaign has featured on websites and blogs of councillors, community councils, schools, Neighbourhood Watch, Violence Against Women Partnership, doctor surgeries, Children 1st and many more.

1.4 Social media reach

Once again, engaging others to publicise the campaign on our behalf has played a big role in increasing the reach of the campaign:

- Of the 60+ tweets about the various Speak up Speak out campaigns, only seven were issued from the Council's main Twitter account.
- Of the seven Facebook updates on Speak up Speak out campaigns, only one was made from the Council's main Facebook account.
- Twitter figures from the Council's main Twitter account are:
 Number of tweets = 7
 Total clicks = 117
 Total responses = 26
 Total reach = 186,300

Date	Content	Clicks	Responses	Reach
10-Sep-13	Campaign calls for older people suffering abuse or neglect to seek help #speakupEdinburgh	7	4	25,100
13-Sep-13	Do you know an older person suffering abuse or neglect? #speakupEdinburgh via	5	2	24,800
01-Oct-13	People in Edinburgh are being urged to speak out about abuse. If you're worried about someone, get in touch	33	7	29,300
14-Oct-13	People in Edinburgh are being urged to speak up about abuse. If you're being harmed, please get in touch	33	5	28,300
25-Nov-13	The Speak up Speak out campaign is run in partnership with @NHS_Lothian @policescotland@agencies #domesticabuse	14	0	24,100

11-Feb-14 @ 12:24	We're encouraging people to speak up about cyber bullying this #SID14	11	4	29,700
		117	26	186,300

In addition, there were over 50 tweets from a range of Twitter accounts for which we have no data on clicks or responses but with an estimated reach of around 100,000.

The figures for the Council's Facebook update for the campaign is:

Date	Content	Reac h	Engag ed	Talki ng	Like s	Commen ts	Share s
11-Feb-14 @ 15:03	Are you taking part in Safer Internet Day 2014? We're encouraging people to speak up against cyber bullying #SID14	269	14	3	1	0	5.20%

1.5 Media coverage

Media relations worked well when linked to a specific event or there were people available for media interviews. This was seen in both the domestic abuse and internet safety campaigns.

Coverage appeared on/in:

- BBC Reporting Scotland
- STV News
- Evening News
- Scottish Daily Mail
- Forth One/Two
- Real Radio
- Edinburgh Reporter
- community newspapers
- internet news sites.

The majority of these outcomes has been achieved through engagement which will be covered in section 2 of this report.

2. ENGAGEMENT

The Speak up Speak out campaign's communications strategy places great emphasis on engagement. It was documented from the earliest workshop sessions that a poster and leaflet campaign would not work for public protection and engagement is critical to success, particularly when communicating with such a wide and vulnerable/hard to reach audience.

Communications and engagement are often confused:

- Communications covers the marketing and PR in a campaign: media relations and social media; copywriting and producing communications materials; and routing information to recognised Council channels for publicity, eg the Neighbourhood Offices, Orb, Leader's Report.

- Engagement (community and stakeholder engagement) means developing a two-way relationship including going out into the community to meet residents, stakeholders and key organisations. This normally takes the form of face to face communications including roadshows and other relationship building activities with community groups and voluntary organisations etc.

The main campaign focus to date has been advertising and distribution of campaign materials to community venues. Good progress has been made in engaging organisations to give access to their audience and communications channels but there is still a great deal of engagement work to be done.

Appendix B shows organisations which have agreed to take campaign or online materials. Appendix C gives details of organisations which have been approached but have not yet responded and those that have not been approached. Appendix A shows a list of Council departments receiving materials is featured. The campaign would benefit from increased focus on internal engagement to embed the campaign with Council and partner frontline staff.

The engagement focus and results to date are detailed in the next section:

2.1 Internal communications/engagement

2.3 External engagement

Audience	Primary Target	Engagement success to date	Communications outcomes/ achievements
Pharmacies	The general public using pharmacies	Posters displayed in various pharmacies across Edinburgh.	N/A

Scottish Fire & Rescue Service	Firefighters	Really good engagement with this important stakeholder: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the Local Authority Liaison Officer distributed generic campaign materials to all SFRS sites and will take future materials • the campaign will also feature in their staff newsletter. 	N/A
Scottish Ambulance Service	Ambulance personnel	Sean Byrne has made initial contact and received a positive response.	N/A
Frontline professionals	health and care professionals, practitioners and agencies to ensure they understand and support the campaign	A priority target audience for engagement. Mixed response to email contact asking for help to publicise the campaign.	N/A
Voluntary sector	Frontline staff who work with the city's most vulnerable residents.	Mixed response to email contact asking for help to publicise the campaign. Some organisations, like Roshni, responded very well and asked to meet to hear more about the campaign.	N/A

Carers/carer agencies	Frontline staff	Mixed response but an important target audience. A representative from Scottish Care Homes contacted us to say that the adult protection campaign materials were unfairly biased against independent care homes but no follow-up action taken and no other complaints received.	Materials were supplied to some agencies who provide care facilities for the Council via Ron Keilloh.
Places of worship	All staff	Very good response from Church of Scotland but mixed response from other faiths. This would be an ideal channel for reaching older people and isolated individuals. Further engagement would be beneficial with remaining faiths in Scotland.	N/A

Housing associations/ providers	Frontline staff	Very low response although it sparked a request for adult protection training from one housing association. A handful have agreed to take materials and a few are Police third party domestic abuse sites.	N/A
Further education	Student welfare staff and lecturers	Good response from student welfare departments in each college or university but more work could be done at Freshers Fayres etc as students are a particularly vulnerable group.	N/A

3. APPROACH FOR YEAR 2 (2014/15)

To date we have concentrated on establishing the campaign and creating awareness. The natural next step is consolidation and embedding the campaign into each organisation.

3.1 Qualitative and quantitative research

In-depth research to be undertaken to ensure the campaign materials and tools are meeting objectives to:

- raise awareness of public protection issues
- communicate with public, professionals, staff and stakeholders
- overcome barriers to seeking help
- educate about harm
- tell people where to get help.

Research should be undertaken with staff, the general public and service users to evaluate campaign effectiveness in terms of language, accessibility and encouraging people to come forward.

This research should be used to inform a comprehensive action plan for Year 2 activities.

3.2 Public protection priorities

These campaign priorities have been put forward for Year 2 (2014-2015):

- domestic abuse campaign for LGBT audience and men affected by domestic abuse
- harmful traditional practices (such as forced marriage, female genital mutilation and honour crimes)
- children affected by alcohol and substance misuse
- self harm
- legal highs.

3.3 Engagement

Face-to-face communication is without doubt the most effective form of communication but is very resource intensive. Up until now, contact has mainly been by email or phone with minor exceptions.

Adopting a mix of briefing sessions, “roadshow” type events and regular dialogue with voluntary and support organisations and staff within the partnership organisations would allow us to make best use of resources.

Engagement action plan/calendar of events

Many events take place across the three partnership organisations – NHS Lothian, Police Scotland and City of Edinburgh Council. Compiling a calendar of partner events would give us a good starting point for a public/stakeholder engagement plan. Once focused engagement starts, events run by the voluntary sector could be included.

Staff engagement within the Council

Ensuring Speak up Speak out is embedded into all adult and child protection training activities and materials is essential to success.

A series of roadshows and/or workshops to gain staff buy-in would prove beneficial. A number of channels have been identified and used but a great number are still unknown.

In addition, each business unit has developed its own internal and external communications channels, eg Housing's Choice magazine, carers newsletter etc. A focused effort should be made to utilise as many existing channels as possible to communicate both internally and externally.

Staff engagement with partnership organisations

Individuals from NHS Lothian and Police Scotland have shown great interest in the campaign but, in general, we have had limited success or evidence of targeting our most influential audiences:

- NHS staff: health visitors, district nurses, GPs and specialist healthcare professionals
- police staff: particularly police staff based in schools and community officers

Embedding Speak up Speak out campaign into partner activities would consolidate success to date.

Council-run events

Engage each neighbourhood through Saty Kaur, Senior Partnership and Communications Officer and or Partnership Information Managers (PIMs) and tie in with all Neighbourhood Office and Partnership events, Community Safety weeks of action, Health and Wellbeing sub-group etc.

Also link in to events planned by contacts in Children & Families, Health & Social Care, Services for Communities, City Development and Corporate Governance.

External events

A series of engagement sessions with frontline organisations should take place, for example:

- Scottish Fire & Rescue Service
- Scottish Ambulance Service
- Transport for Edinburgh staff
- voluntary organisations
- housing association staff.

Telephone and email engagement

Continue making direct contact to canvass voluntary organisations to take materials to publicise the campaign to their audience.

4. RECOMMENDATIONS FOR YEAR 2 (2004-15)

- 4.1 As engagement has proven to be the most effective communications tool, it should be the main focus for Year 2.

A focused plan is needed to engage frontline staff across partner organisations, voluntary sector and services which support the city's most vulnerable audiences. This is the most direct route of reaching the most marginalised and hard to reach citizens.

Audience	Primary Target	To be pursued
C&F and H&SC Training staff	Training staff	Ensure Speak up Speak out is an integral part of any child protection or adult protection training.
Council frontline staff	Frontline staff who work with the city's most vulnerable residents.	Adult and child protection training, briefings, workshops and roadshows for frontline staff and support services. Identify and engage with other channels available in SFC, C&F, H&SC, Corporate and City Development. Continued engagement with Neighbourhood Office/Partnership staff to reach their audiences
Partner organisation – NHS	Doctors Health visitors/district nurses Hospital wards for elderly Mental health services Learning disabilities services Physical disabilities services Community health partnerships	Adult and child protection training, briefings, workshops and roadshows for frontline staff and support services. Articles in Connections magazine Social media Web coverage Budget for engagement activities

Partner organisation – Police Scotland	Community Liaison Officers Police staff based in schools Beat police	Adult and child protection training, briefings, workshops and roadshows for staff. Articles in in-house magazine Social media Web coverage Budget for engagement activities
Senior professionals	Health and care professionals, practitioners and agencies to ensure they understand and support the campaign	Engagement of those managing frontline professionals.
Chemists	Counter staff	Engagement and encourage them to publicise the campaign using their comms channels.
Scottish Fire & Rescue Service	Firemen	Develop closer relationship with Scottish Fire & Rescue Service as firemen are in a unique position in having access to homes.
Politicians representing Edinburgh	MSPs, MPs and MEPs	Develop relationship and encourage those based in Edinburgh to promote the campaign.
BME support services	eg MECOPP, Saheliy, Shakti Women's Aid	Continue to work with organisations to develop campaign materials in large quantities in other languages.
LGBT support services	eg LGBT Health and Wellbeing, LGBT Youth	Continue to work with organisations to develop campaign materials for niche audiences.
Voluntary sector	Frontline staff who work with the city's most vulnerable residents.	Briefings, workshops and roadshows for staff. Encourage them to publicise the campaign using their comms channels.
Private healthcare providers	Frontline staff who provide private medical care.	Develop relationship with private healthcare providers. Encourage them to publicise the campaign using their comms channels.

Jobcentre	Frontline staff	Tap into any existing relationships through City Development. Develop relationship and encourage them to publicise the campaign using their comms channels.
Organisations supporting carers and those being cared for	Care4Carers, Princess Royal Trust for Carers etc.	Briefings, workshops and roadshows for staff and carers. Encourage them to publicise the campaign using their comms channels.
Places of worship	Religious establishments and related clubs and activities	Briefings, workshops and roadshows for staff and volunteers. Encourage them to publicise the campaign using their comms channels.
Housing providers	Housing associations – priority to those focusing on homeless, vulnerable adults and older people	Training, briefings and workshops for staff. Encourage them to publicise the campaign using their comms channels.
Community shops and services	eg newsagents, Post Offices, small supermarkets, local shops etc	Tap in to existing local relationships and develop new ones. Encourage them to publicise the campaign using their comms channels.
Social venues	eg pubs, clubs, bingo halls, bowling clubs etc	Tap in to existing local relationships and develop new ones. Encourage social venues to publicise the campaign using their comms channels although expect limited success with organisations which are part of a chain.

Private leisure facilities	eg gyms etc	Develop relationships and encourage gyms to publicise the campaign using their comms channels. Female changing rooms are a good avenue for domestic abuse and LGBT materials. Male changing rooms are suitable for targeting LGBT, abused men and male perpetrators of domestic abuse.

4.2 Toolkit for voluntary organisations and frontline services

Develop a toolkit to enable voluntary organisations and services supporting those most at risk to develop materials and messages suitable for their niche audiences.

4.3 Briefings and toolkit for teachers

Work with education staff and subject matter experts to create a toolkit for teachers to engage pupils and raise awareness of public protection issues.

4.4 Dedicated galaxy site, social media channels and apps

Create a dedicated site aimed at the general public and professionals providing resources for each audience and including links highlighting the help available.

4.5 Local champions

Create a network of champions across the city to spotlight public protection issues and champion the campaign.

Appendix 2

Adult Support and Protection work being undertaken in A&E at Edinburgh Royal Infirmary

1. Background

The Scottish Government has identified A&E as one of the 5 priority areas for work. There have been concerns about the engagement of the NHS in adult protection in general and the small number of Adult Protection referrals from the NHS and specifically from A&E settings. This concern was reiterated in the 2010-12 AS&P Biennial reports.

NHS Lothian have undertaken targeted, tailored training for staff in A&E and undertaken three audits to identify potential issues within A&E at the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh.

2. Adult Support & Protection Awareness Sessions to Emergency Department Staff: September/October 2013

126 ED staff attended 15 minute training sessions on Adult Support and Protection (ASP) delivered by Neil Punton (Learning and Development practitioner NHS Lothian) in conjunction with Annette Cosgrove (Emergency Nurse Practitioner, RIE ED) over September/October 2013 in the ED at the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh.

The sessions were held over a 5 week period at morning handovers for both nursing and medical staff. All grades of medical and nursing staff attended these sessions. In total 9 sessions were held, 5 for nursing staff and 4 for medical staff, the 5th session for medical staff was not undertaken as the medical team on that morning had all previously attended a session.

A short questionnaire was given to staff to obtain their level of awareness regarding ASP. 122 staff out of 126 completed these questionnaires. Most responses highlighted staffs awareness (58 and 57 respectively) of types of harm and those who are at risk. Fewer staff were aware of their duty to co-operate and how to get help and support (35 and 34 respectively). This may indicate a need for further training specifically on the referral process and how to get help/support.

The questionnaire was anonymous so it cannot be established how different staff groups and different grades of staff within these groups responded. The groups also included both medical and nursing students so this may account for some of the lack of awareness of/completion of the learnpro e-module on ASP, and may account for the 10 respondents who were not aware of their role in relation to ASP.

3. Audits of A&E attenders to see if people potentially in need of adult support and protection measures are being identified.

Frequent attendance at Emergency Departments has been identified in adult protection reviews as a potential warning sign of the escalation of someone's vulnerability – for example the serious case review of Stephen Hoskins' death in England and two significant case reviews locally in Edinburgh and Borders.

There is no information on whether patients who are identified as frequent attenders to A&E (5 times in 3 months, 10 times in 12 months) are also an adult at risk – as defined by the Adult Support and Protection (AS&P) (Scotland) 2007 Act.

Two audits were undertaken at RIE A&E in August 2013 and January 2014 to determine whether patients who were identified as "frequent attenders" (5 times in 3 months, 10 times in 12 months) were also adults at risk of harm as defined by the Adult Support and Protection (Scotland) Act 2007. A follow up audit was undertaken of A&E attenders (not frequent attenders) was undertaken in February 2014. Information on the methodology of the audits can be obtained from Alison Jarvis.

3.1 An audit of frequent attenders at RIE A&E to see how many of them meet the '3 point test' for adult support and protection

There was only one patient identified in the sample who met the '3 point test' and they were already being supported by social work.

3.2 A follow up audit of frequent attenders at RIE A&E to see how many of them meet the '3 point test' for adult support and protection (AS&P)

From the sample there were no individuals who met the 3 point test who were not already involved with a range of services. A couple had had previous involvement under AS&P legislation and there was acknowledgement that others would be highly likely to in the future – a couple of very vulnerable individuals who presented were currently in prison.

Although the purpose of the audit was not to consider record keeping it was noticeable that the overall standard of documentation was good with clear records of other involved professionals - CAMHS; CPN; CLDT or Social Work. There was also a note of information given to signpost individuals to community resources e.g. the Crisis Centre.

The process of flagging up and reviewing frequent attenders may mean that the needs of this group are already well considered and agency partners are already identified and involved. Social Work are now contributing to the monthly frequent attenders meeting which enhances the quality of the information and the range of support measures which can be provided to an individual. In order to address this a third audit was undertaken.

3.3 An audit of people attending RIE A&E to see how many of them meet the '3 point test' for adult support and protection

From the sample of 137 records, there were eight people who were identified who potentially met the "3 point test" but further information was required to make an informed decision. It was acknowledged that two of these would have had an adult concern form completed by the police, given that they were discharged to police custody.

It is acknowledged that, given the number of individuals who present at A&E, that some individuals that the group decided did not meet the 3 point test, may have been considered an adult at risk by different practitioners. However, there were only 8 individuals who might have met the 3 point test but further information would have been required to make a decision.

To follow up:

1. A further audit is planned of individuals presenting at Mental Health Assessment Service.
2. An audit of individuals presenting at A&E at St Johns Hospital is planned.

Appendix 2: Business Plan 2014-15

Appendix 3: Performance Report

1. Introduction

- 1.1 This is the sixth annual report of the Offender Management Committee. The Offender Management Committee was established in June 2008 to ensure that the statutory responsibilities placed on local partner agencies for the assessment and management of risk posed by dangerous offenders are discharged effectively. The Committee is responsible for monitoring the implementation of risk assessment and risk management procedures and for promoting the highest standards of inter-agency practice in responding to the presentation of risk and in preventing harm. Membership of the Committee is set out at appendix 1.
- 1.2 The Offender Management Committee reports to the Edinburgh Chief Officers Group the remit of which includes child protection, adult protection, the management of dangerous offenders and the local alcohol and drug partnership. The Chief Officers Group is committed to ensuring that local agencies, individually and collectively, work to protect vulnerable people as effectively as possible.

2. Business Plan

- 2.1 The business plan for 2014-15 was submitted to the Chief Officers Group in October 2013 and an updated plan with progress made towards objectives is attached as appendix 2. Progress towards meeting the objectives of the business plan is monitored through the Edinburgh Adult Protection and Offender Management Quality Assurance Sub Committee.

3. Performance Indicators

- 3.1 A range of performance indicators has been developed and reported to the Offender Management Committee on a quarterly basis. These indicators are continuously reviewed to ensure that, in addition to outputs, information is reported on outcomes and MAPPA processes.
- 3.2 The latest performance report is provided at appendix 3. It contains information across the last nine quarters. After a data cleansing exercise by the MAPPA Co-ordination Unit a year ago, the total number of sex offenders subject to MAPPA has stabilised in a range around 350. Almost all registered sex offenders are managed in the community, and the majority of those are managed at Level 1. Risk levels are not static and level 1 cases are referred to levels 2 or 3 if circumstances change and there is need for more active multi agency risk management or senior management oversight.
- 3.3 In addition to the normal business of the level 2 panel there have been 18 reviews of indefinite registrations, where the offender has been subject to registration for 15 years. The previous year there were 10 reviews, so it is an increasing area of business. The role of the panel is to make a recommendation to the Chief Constable about whether an offender should remain subject to registration. The level 2 panel has also considered 10 cases added to agendas under any other business where there has been an urgent need to discuss the risk posed by an offender and formulate a risk management response. Often this has included a risk of violence as well as a sexual risk.

- 3.4 While the number of level 3 cases is never large the planning and resources involved in them are significant. Offenders due to be released from custody who have significant health needs as well as posing a serious risk of harm to others have proved especially challenging, particularly if the level of care required results in a request for residential accommodation or several carers having to visit in the same day. These releases are the result of decisions taken at a parole review or by Scottish Ministers for compassionate release at end of life. There is often significant contingency planning involved, particularly in cases where there is a high media profile.
- 3.5 The performance report provides information about further charges under the headings of sexual crimes, crimes of violence, registration offences, and other crimes. The details of risk levels, nature of offences and MAPPA levels are set out in the notes column. Further information about those offenders who are subject to statutory supervision who have been charged with further offences is analysed by the Quality Assurance Sub Committee, so that lessons can be learned about how both the risk and needs of the offender have been managed.
- 3.6 The trend over the past year has been similar to previous years in that the re-offending rate amongst sexual offenders is lower for further sexual offences than for other crimes and the direct risk to others is much more likely to be a crime of violence. Domestic abuse is an example, with risks to current, previous or potential partners and to children in these relationships being addressed. MAPPA cases are therefore managed with regard to all risks posed by the offender, not just the risk of sexual offending.
- 3.7 The number of Sexual Offences Prevention Orders (SOPO) has remained at around 40 over the past year. SOPOs provide an additional strategy to manage the risks posed by certain sex offenders. SOPO conditions can mirror licence conditions and have the advantage of the power of arrest if there is a breach. This is an important consideration in the protection of prospective victims. SOPOs also allow for the enforcement of certain conditions after the end of a period of statutory supervision.
- 3.8 Indicators are included in the performance report relating to young people's risk management case conferences, for young people who are assessed with high or very high sexually harmful behaviour or high or very high violent behaviour. In the last year these case conferences have been required more frequently to manage violent rather than sexual offending risk.

4. Quality Assurance

- 4.1 Each of the Responsible Authorities has its own arrangements for quality assurance. Criminal justice social work is included in the quality assurance arrangements for all of the City of Edinburgh Council's social work services. There are regular case file audits which include cases of registered sex offenders. After a successful pilot held in 2013, there is a current practice evaluation programme across 2014-15 in which senior managers, practitioners and their line managers examine randomly selected cases from all teams. This includes sex offender cases. Improvement actions are identified from case file audits and the practice evaluation sessions.
- 4.2 In July 2013, as a result of issues identified from a Significant Case Review around the management of risk for sex offenders who also have complex needs, a case file audit was carried out on all active MAPPA Level 1 cases where social work was recorded as the Responsible Authority. The audit focused on 83 case files.
- 4.3 The audit provided evidence that offenders were engaged throughout the different stages of a case, that the service fed back to them, and that potential barriers were addressed adequately. Strong partnership working was evident at the various stages of cases from assessment and management through to review.
- 4.4 Almost all cases had evidence of positive outcomes for the person, with less than a third of the cases having negative outcomes. Almost all of the cases had evidence of improvements in the service user's circumstances. Case managers were taking a holistic approach to risk management, helping people to address a range of issues so that they developed a more stable and safe lifestyle. Low levels of reoffending were reported.
- 4.5 Areas for improvement were identified, for example around case recording, the storage of information, and reviews. An improvement plan was developed and has since been implemented.
- 4.6 Since the establishment of the Offender Management Committee the Quality Assurance Sub Committee has reported on statistical information, performance management, and specific tasks allocated by the committee, such as analysis of published significant case reviews from other areas or initial case reviews from Edinburgh. In early 2013 the criminal justice social work service became fully integrated into the management arrangements for mental health, substance misuse, and homelessness, under one senior manager. This was in recognition of the prevalence of these issues in the offending population. The emerging learning from the Significant Case Review and the MAPPA Level 1 audit confirmed the importance of addressing all of those issues in an integrated manner, and as a result the Quality Assurance Sub Committee has been merged with the Adult Support and Protection Quality Assurance Sub Committee. This allows reporting to both main committees.

5. Policies and Procedures

- 5.1 A key objective of the Offender Management Committee is to ensure that there are comprehensive policies and procedures for the management of high risk offenders that take account of key transition points between services and ensure effective partnership working.
- 5.2 The Level of Service Case Management Inventory (LS/CMI) was introduced across Scotland in 2011-12 as the risk assessment and case management tool to be used by all criminal justice social workers. In the latter half of 2013 the Care Inspectorate led a self evaluation process for all local authorities to establish how LS/CMI was being used. The self evaluation included the completion of an extensive questionnaire, a file inspection and peer challenge from other local authorities, and demonstrated that in Edinburgh LS/CMI was broadly being used in the way that the Risk Management Authority anticipated.
- 5.3 The self evaluation identified improvement actions and an action plan was submitted to the Care Inspectorate. Two actions in this plan were the updating of guidance on the use of LS/CMI for staff and for refresher training for staff and line managers. The procedure has been updated and the training is ongoing, co-ordinated by the Training and Development Officer who oversaw the introduction of the tool across Lothian and Borders.
- 5.4 The Scottish Government is about to update the MAPPA Guidance 2012. It was planned to be distributed in May 2014, with implementation in November 2014. The multi agency Edinburgh MAPPA Business Meeting will be used to brief managers on key changes in the Guidance, including new templates for risk management case conferences and MAPPA minutes prior to volume training in August 2014.

6. Training

- 6.1 The training plan for criminal justice social work staff in the City of Edinburgh Council is developed in consultation with the Lothian and Borders Training and Development Officer and is delivered across local authority boundaries, frequently on a multi agency basis. The plan ensures that staff at all levels are provided with appropriate skills and knowledge to work effectively with offenders who pose a high risk of harm.
- 6.2 A number of training initiatives in relation to sexual or violent offending have been delivered in the last year. An introduction to working with sex offenders was provided for those staff about to commence work in this area. The Serious Offenders Liaison Service (SOLS) completed a series of courses on working with personality disordered offenders and working with stalkers. Training has also been delivered on drugs awareness and effective practice skills. Consolidation sessions on LS/CMI were held to ensure consistent use across all sites. Core training on community payback and criminal justice social work reports continued to be delivered.

- 6.3 The Scottish Government has replaced the current groupwork programme for sex offenders with Moving Forward, Making Changes, which will be delivered across both custodial and community settings, allowing a more integrated approach to treatment provision. As a result there is an ongoing extensive training programme for all staff who work with sex offenders.
- 6.4 While the City of Edinburgh Council delivers the Caledonian System to address domestic abuse in partnership with three other local authorities in Lothian and Borders, it is recognised that domestic abuse is also a feature of many cases that are managed through the community intervention social work teams. These cases may be assessed as unsuitable for Caledonian, or domestic abuse was not the index offence. Over the past two years, therefore, capacity has been built across all teams by training community intervention team staff in the Caledonian System men's programme and delivering training on the use of the Spousal Assault Risk Assessment tool. As noted in section 3.6 above, some registered sex offenders also pose a risk of domestic abuse.

7. Engagement with Offenders Victim and Families

- 7.1 The City of Edinburgh Council provides residential accommodation for high risk offenders, primarily to facilitate transition from long term prison sentences to their own accommodation in the community. The unit is part of the criminal justice social work reintegration service, a description that recognises that, in addition to managing risk, offenders who are successfully reintegrated to communities will pose less of a risk in the future. Active engagement with some of the most serious offenders is a primary focus for reintegration service staff, with programmes of pro-social activities and encouragement to seek safe opportunities for employment or training.
- 7.2 The residential service has a clear system for suggestions and complaints, access to senior staff, the use of weekly structured keywork sessions, residents' meetings, residents' involvement in planning activities and a system of evaluation to receive residents' feedback. Action plans are developed as a result of resident feedback.
- 7.3 In February 2014 the residential unit received an unannounced visit from the Care Inspectorate. It received a very positive report, with only minor improvement actions identified. The report stated “within the context of the service user group and the complexity of their situations, we saw that service users had excellent opportunities to contribute to their support plans and to life in the service generally”. The inspectors spoke with service users and an ex-service user. All spoke very positively about the support they received. They told the inspectors of their good relationship with staff and highlighted "respect" as a key feature of these relationships. They enjoyed the activities available to them.

- 7.4 Integrated Case Management for prisoners is the system that brings together the prisoner, key staff and, where appropriate, the family to assist the prisoner’s progress through the custodial sentence. It is the means for planning for prisoners who will be subject to statutory supervision on release. There may be circumstances where it is inappropriate to involve family members in these meetings, for example if a family member is at risk from the prisoner, but in most cases the prisoner is consulted on the involvement of family members. In appropriate cases, therefore, the prisoner’s family has an opportunity to contribute to the release plan. The prison based social work team at HMP Edinburgh provides information to families about integrated case management through leaflets and events at the prison’s visitor centre. Significant effort has gone into assisting prisoners to understand their risk assessments on which integrated case management is based.
- 7.5 The interests of victims are most clearly addressed through the MAPPA processes. It is a requirement that each MAPPA level 2 and level 3 meeting records to whom the offender poses a risk, whether the public in general, children, staff, self, known adult, prisoners or others. This list includes those individuals or groups who have been victims in the past or are at risk of becoming victims in the future. Child and adult protection issues are explicitly addressed.
- 7.6 Decisions are made at each discussion about whether there is a need to communicate with actual or potential victims, either by way of information sharing or by formal disclosure. Often this is done by a joint visit from social work and police.
- 7.7 MAPPA is underpinned by risk management case conferences, multi agency operational meetings which develop risk management plans. Risk management case conferences follow the same template as MAPPA meetings and they provide the pre-read for MAPPA level 2 and level 3 meetings, as well as providing the risk management plan for MAPPA level 1 cases (the majority). Therefore, the same issues are addressed at the operational level.
- 7.8 Scottish Government guidance on community payback orders requires local authorities to gather exit questionnaires from offenders at the end of the order which provides information on outcomes and the offender’s experience of the process. This information supplements the offender feedback already gathered through the regular reviews held throughout the order.

- 7.9 The latest Community Payback Order Annual Report (2012-13) submitted to the Scottish Government and published on the City of Edinburgh Council's website has information about offenders' experience of supervision and outcomes for them. Offenders reported that they were treated with respect, that their circumstances were taken into account, that the conditions of their order were fully explained, and that being on community payback helped them. Many offenders identified the importance of the relationship that they had with their supervising officer as something that motivated them to make changes in their lives. Many reported positive outcomes from supervision that included reductions in or abstinence from alcohol or drug use, improvements in accommodation, engagement with employment or training opportunities, or improved use of leisure time. Many offenders cited attitude change as a benefit of supervision, including the development of more pro-social attitudes.

8. Violent Offenders

- 8.1 Sections 10 and 11 of the Management of Offenders etc. (Scotland) Act 2005 established the Multi Agency Public Protection Arrangements (MAPPA). The most recent guidance was published in 2012 and is about to be updated. To date, the arrangements only apply to registered sex offenders and restricted patients, although the Scottish Government is currently considering how some violent offenders can be brought into the MAPPA framework.
- 8.2 In the absence of a national framework for the management of violent offenders, the Offender Management Committee has taken a number of steps to ensure that there is active multi-agency collaboration between agencies in Edinburgh and these have been reported in previous annual reports. While it is not possible to resource a MAPPA type structure for violent offenders, nevertheless a risk management case conference model similar to that of MAPPA has been developed locally for a small group of violent offenders who pose the most serious risk of harm to others. In a few critical cases there is senior management oversight through a MAPPA level 2 or 3 type meeting.
- 8.3 Regular meetings take place between the City of Edinburgh Council's criminal justice reintegration services team and Police Scotland. These meetings enable information exchange and case discussion. In individual cases, protocols are agreed about how to respond to anticipated contingencies. New residents at the residential unit receive a visit from the police on admission as a demonstration of the joint approach to their management.
- 8.4 The arrangements for the management of offenders who pose a high or very high risk of harm to others are already well established in the risk assessment and risk management procedures for criminal justice social work staff. Information from HCR 20 assessments contribute to risk management plans for the critical few cases where the offender poses the highest risk of harm to others. Clinical support for those workers who carry out HCR 20 risk assessments is provided by the Serious Offender Liaison Service (SOLS).

- 8.5 Last year's annual report outlined the expansion of SOLS to include violent offenders, and the recruitment of a senior practitioner social worker to complete the multi disciplinary team. This has enhanced the already well established links between criminal justice social work and SOLS, and in the past year the service has been well used.
- 8.6 SOLS is available for consultation to any agency and additionally there is a schedule of visits to each criminal justice social work team across Lothian and Borders to discuss individual cases, support specific risk assessments, and generally assist staff with the management of those who pose the highest risk of harm to others.

9. Edinburgh Prison Based Social Work Service

- 9.1 Last year's annual report confirmed the successful implementation of the Service Level Agreement between the Scottish Prison Service the City of Edinburgh Council for the provision of prison based social work at HMP Edinburgh. Regular meetings have monitored the agreement, and while all tasks within the Service Level Agreement are currently being delivered, there are pressure points from the demand arising from specific areas of work, for example risk assessments for non-statutory sex offenders.
- 9.2 The Service Level Agreement also has to be sufficiently flexible to respond to population changes within the prison estate, for example if there is a change in the number of sex offenders accommodated in HMP Edinburgh. To take account of current pressures and to anticipate possible increase in demand for prison based social work services, the City of Edinburgh Council has requested a review of the Service Level Agreement.
- 9.3 Last year's annual report provided information on the implications for services arising from the arrival of women prisoners at HMP Edinburgh, including the close working relationship between the prison based social work team and the Governor. There have since been further discussions in the planning of the new regional unit for women which will be built at HMP Edinburgh, with a scoping exercise about the additional social work services that will be required once the unit is operational.
- 9.4 Effective planning for the release of women prisoners was a prominent theme of the Angiolini Commission on Women Offenders published in 2012. The Willow Service was highlighted as an example of best practice in the Women's Commission Report, and the Scottish Government allocated additional funds in June 2013 for a Women's Community Justice Centre to be established in Edinburgh, delivering services to women across Lothian and Borders. The centre is now operational and is working closely with prisons and the new Offender Recovery Service which provides arrest referral, voluntary throughcare and prison based substance misuse services, to ensure that there is a greater focus on reintegration planning for women who are released from custody without statutory supervision.

10. Significant Case Review

- 10.1 In June 2012, after a person was sentenced to life imprisonment for rape and murder, the Offender Management Committee commissioned a significant case review. An independent reviewing officer was appointed, supported by a team from outwith Edinburgh.
- 10.2 This has been a complex and lengthy process that has continued throughout the reporting year. The Offender Management Committee has now received a final draft of the report and has produced an executive summary and a response. This has been shared with the Edinburgh and Lothians Strategic Oversight Group. It is planned to publish the executive summary and response.
- 10.3 There are a number of recommendations in the report, some relevant to partners in the Offender Management Committee. An action plan will be developed and its implementation will be overseen by the Offender Management Committee.

Edinburgh Alcohol and Drugs Partnership Annual Report 1st April 2013 – 31st March 2014

Committee title Chief Officers' Group

Committee Date – June 2014

Purpose of report

To provide the Chief Officers' Group with an Annual Report for 1st April 2013 – 31st March 2014

Background

The Alcohol and Drug Partnerships have been established at local authority level by the Scottish Government to develop responses to alcohol and drug related problems. Membership is from lead officers from the Police, NHS Lothian, the Third Sector and the City of Edinburgh Council.

The EADP strategy sets out 3 High Level Outcomes which guides the work of the partnership. These are:

- Children, young people and adults' health and wellbeing is not damaged by alcohol and drugs
- More people achieve sustained recovery from problematic substance misuse
- Communities affected by drugs and alcohol use are safer

The partnership receives a ring-fenced budget from the Scottish Government of £6.9 million which is invested in partnership to deliver these outcomes.

Annual Report

Children, Young People and Families

Outcome: Children, young people and adults' health and wellbeing is not damaged by alcohol and drugs

1. Developing Services for Children / Young People with Alcohol/Drug Problems

Following work by Bernado's to review and identify support for children and young people with alcohol and drug problems in Edinburgh a coordinator has been appointed with a role to bring together the range of services across the 3rd and Public Sector who support these young people. These services include:

- Counselling
- Assertive outreach
- One-to-one support
- Prescribing other clinical support

The post will also develop responses within existing services for vulnerable children and young people. These includes CAMHS, residential units, Throughcare service, the Young People's Service.

Progress to date includes the development of a single referral process into specialist services, training for residential services on New Psychoactive Substances (NPS).

The post is supported by a multi-agency Advisory Group to support the development of an integrated pathway of care for this group of children / young people.

2. Preventing of Alcohol and Drug Problems amongst Young People

School based prevention

A programme of risk taking behaviour seminars have been delivered across secondary schools in Edinburgh. These include specific inputs on alcohol and drug issues as well as the links with other risk taking behaviours such as sexual health and mental health.

Fast Forward and Caledonia Youth have produced a resource to address both sexual health and alcohol and drug use as a part of the risk taking behaviours programme delivered in schools. This programme of education / prevention is now available on the Orb for teachers to deliver direct to pupils.

Community based prevention

The Junction, MYDG continue to work in partnership to deliver a programme of alcohol prevention in the North of the city. This includes outreach, alcohol brief interventions and referral into counselling and support. In 2013/14 276 outreach sessions took place and 111 alcohol brief interventions were delivered.

A local approach to alcohol prevention work is being developed in the South of the city. This aims of build on existing activity as well as the lessons from the North of the city using an asset based approach. The intention is to establish the approach by September 2013.

A "snapfax" leaflet has been coproduced with young people setting out key information and services around risk taking behaviours. This has been distributed in community setting across the city.

3. Improving Services for Children Affected by Parental Substance Use

Developing links with adult services

There are 4 third sector services that support for children and families affected by parental substance misuse. These services have worked together in 2013/14 to develop a single referral form, assessment process to ensure people receive the right services. Alongside this closer working arrangements have been developed with the Recovery Hubs. This followed a review of referral information which suggested that few referrals were made by treatment and recovery services within the Hub and that the majority of referrals were made by Children and Families Social Work, after problems had exacerbated.

Each service has developed a relationship with one of four the Hubs within the city. In the South East of the city this resulted in 20 new families referred through the Hubs in the first two months; 14 of these referrals had no involvement from Social Work services suggesting the approach ensured early intervention.

The ADP has made a £100k investment across these services to improve capacity and ensure that this approach becomes a part of the core delivery.

Joint approaches with Children's Services Management Groups

A number of Children Services Management Groups have expressed an interest in service development address the needs of children affected by parental substance misuse. The following pieces of work have been developed:

- An event focussed on parental substance misuse has been held in the North East. This has resulted in an intention to pilot parenting classes within the Recovery Hub. Focus groups are to be held with parents to identify how and when to deliver these.
- The South West CSMG has agreed to undergo a LEAN process of all the joint working processes such as referral processes, assessments care plans for children and their parents. The intention is to join up these processes so that shared care plan can be developed for the family.
- The North West has held an event to discuss key issues around parental substance misuse and identify key actions to take forward.
- Planning has started with each of the CSMGs about the roll out of the training for the Lothian wide Guidelines for working with Children affected by parental substance misuse.

Treatment and Recovery

Outcome: More people achieve sustained recovery from problematic substance misuse

4. Developing a Collaborative Commissioning Approach

The ADP has established a Commissioning Collaborative to redesign the system of care. The collaborative consists of Public and Third Sector services

The drivers for change include:

- A continued to shift towards a recovery oriented system of care
- A reduction in investment across sectors

- A focus on outcome delivery
- A long term approach to securing delivery (across both 3rd and Public Sectors)

Services will be delivered through formal Alliances between organisations and performance will be measured across Alliances (and not at an individual agency level). An outcomes framework has been developed which will guide service redesign across the Alliances.

Alongside this a Quality Assurance Framework has been developed which focuses on quality processes to ensure continual organisational development. This will be used to assess agency capacity to deliver the new system of care.

Key milestones are as follows:

October 2014 - Redesign completed

June 2015 - Pilot completed

March 2016 - Delivery secured in the long term

5. Addressing New Psychoactive Substances (Legal Highs)

Concerns have been raised across the partnership of the impact of New Psychoactive substances, many of which are legal. These substances are sold on-line and in “Head Shops” as well as Newsagents and Garages in the city.

Substances include synthetic cannabis, stimulants and benzodiazepines (valium) like substances. Many have properties which are similar to illegal drugs.

Concerns include:

- i. An increase in injecting behaviour (particularly amongst those with a history of injecting)
- ii. The exacerbation of mental health issues particularly amongst those who have a history of mental health problems
- iii. Reports of increased use amongst school age children particularly where there is local access

A working group has been established which has developed the following:

- Key messages for people who may use these drugs
- Advice about safer injecting
- Joint visits and other approaches to develop links with retailers
- A joint approach to training and information sharing

6. Increasing Service User Involvement and Peer Support

SMART Recovery

SMART Recovery is a peer led group programme which supports others to sustain their recovery journey. It focuses on:

- Building and maintaining motivation
- Coping with urges

- Managing thoughts, feelings and behaviours
- Living a balanced life

Over the past two years Edinburgh ADP has worked in partnership with the other ADPs in Lothian to commission SMART Recovery to establish peer led Smart Recovery Groups.

The approach has been externally evaluated with a final report available at the end of October. At the current time 17 SMART groups have been established across Lothian (17 in Edinburgh) and run on a weekly basis. They support on average 6 people per group (102 people in Edinburgh). Some groups are currently facilitated by professionals whilst others are facilitated by trained peers.

Conversation Cafe

A conversation cafe was held in Edinburgh in March 2014 with 79 professionals and people in recovery. The event was an opportunity to discuss the vision for recovery and how this would be achieved.

Key themes included:

- The role of those in recovery in service delivery
- Greater collaboration between treatment services and those in recovery
- Addressing stigma
- Developing family recovery

The event will be repeated across the four Recovery Hub areas within Edinburgh over the coming year and will also include an event for family members.

7. Reducing Drug Related Deaths

Understanding the challenge

The Drug Related Deaths Group works pan Lothian to identify lessons learnt from individual drug related deaths. The group produced a report setting out the key themes and lessons from drug related deaths in the calendar year 2013.

The general profile of those who died was as follows:

- White, Scottish Males in their late 30s
- Single and unemployed
- A known history of both alcohol and drug misuse
- Previous contact with secondary care treatment services; not in contact with secondary care at time of death but may have been in treatment at
- Death occurred at home often in the company of friends
- Toxicology report suggested a combination of drugs and alcohol contributed to the death.
- The role New Psychoactive Substances (Legal Highs) appear as a growing concern

The group has developed an action plan which it intends to take forward over 2014/15

The Take Home Naloxone Programme

Naloxone is an opioid antagonist which can temporarily reverse the effect of an opioid overdose; this provides more time for emergency services to arrive and further treatment be given. Naloxone can be supplied by nursing staff to people with an opiate dependency through an NHS Lothian Patient Group Directive. All those receiving Naloxone also receive appropriate training on overdose prevention and management.

The Scottish Government has a minimum expectation that 15% of people with problem opiate use should be supplied with take home naloxone kits. Performance is measured at a Health Board level biannually and in April 2014 Lothian achieved 22%.

Following the event a pan Lothian Steering Group has been established and action plan agreed to deliver the following:

- Improved access through:
 - the Recovery Hubs
 - On release / discharge from HMP Edinburgh HMP Addiewell
 - Police Custody
 - Hospital including Accident and Emergency
- Develop and nurture Peer Champions to train peers in overdose prevention and the use of Naloxone.
- Develop access through pharmacies and GPs

Community Safety

Outcome: Communities affected by drugs and alcohol use are safer

8. Reducing alcohol and drug related offending

Services for people in contact with the Criminal Justice System including those in / released from Prison have been reviewed, redesign and secured through a tender process. The Arrest Referral Service, Prison Treatment Service and Prison Through Care Service have been brought together into one contract. This contract was tendered openly and Lifeline was selected to deliver the service through a 5 year contract.

The service commenced on 1st 2014 April and is operational across these the criminal justice system.

Overprovision of Licensed Premises

Edinburgh faces similar challenges as the rest of Scotland when it comes to alcohol related problems. These include:

- 47% of adults report drinking outwith the Government guidelines.
- Alcohol-related harm costs an estimated £2.2 million to the public purse
- At least 26% of serious assaults in public spaces and 23% in private spaces are alcohol related.

In October 2014 EADP produced an extensive report on the challenges caused by alcohol along with the challenges posed by the overprovision of licensed premises.

The Licensing Forum considered this report and consequently the Board has identified seven areas of “special concern” in terms of the overprovision of license premises.

Recent decisions made by the Board to grant licenses in areas of “special concern” have raised concerns amongst the Police and NHS Lothian. The Alcohol and Drug Partnership is looking to develop an approach enable the Licensing Board to make effective decisions about licensing policy while addressing the concerns of NHS Lothian and Police Scotland.

9. Performance information

Alcohol Brief Interventions (ABI)

The Health Efficiency Access and Treatment (HEAT) Standard required NHS Health Boards to deliver alcohol brief interventions (ABIs) in the priority settings of Primary Care, Antenatal Care and Emergency Departments.

From 1st April 2013 - 31 March 2014 23,735 ABIs were delivered which represents 240% of the HEAT target (9,938). 71% of these ABIs were delivered in Edinburgh.

Continuing on from the previous success NHS Lothian is working closely with EADP in the delivery ABIs in youth settings, Criminal Justice settings and within Jobcentre Plus.

HEAT Target Access to Drug Treatment Services

The national HEAT target A11 expects 90% of people who need help with their drug and / or alcohol problem will wait no longer than three weeks for treatment.

Performance for 2013/14 is set out in the graph below:

The target has presented particular challenges for services in quarter 3 and 4 mainly due to the demand placed on services.

An action plan to improve performance has been developed which focuses on improving engagement at the start of treatment to reduce re-referral and to improve effective throughput. It is anticipated that Edinburgh will achieve the target in Quarter 1 2014.

Drug Related Deaths

Drug related deaths are measured through a criteria set by the Scottish Government. In the calendar year 2013 there were 58 deaths in Edinburgh. This represents an increase of 4 deaths from 2012 and is 6 deaths above the average for the previous 5 years.

At this stage deaths show a slight increase on previous years, a local action plan has been developed and a priority put on improving the supply of Naloxone across the city.

Naloxone distribution

Edinburgh contributes to a Health Board level target that 15% of problem drug users should be supplied with a Naloxone kit. In 2012/13 the Health Board area achieved 22% with 1,805 kits distributed across an estimated problem drug user population of 8,200.

Parental Substance Misuse

Accurate local data on the number of children affected by parental substance misuse is challenging to collect due to definitions of “affected” and the hidden nature of the problem. Nationally, current estimates from the government suggest that 40 – 60,000 children are affected by parental drug misuse. It is also estimated that 65,000 children may be affected by parental alcohol misuse.

The Create needs assessment 2012 report estimated the following in Edinburgh:

- Up to 7,000 children may be affected by parental alcohol use;
- At least 2,173 children are affected by parental problem drug use;
- About 1,000 children are affected by Foetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder.

Drug Treatment and Testing Orders

From 1st April 2013 to 31st March 2014, the Edinburgh and Midlothian DTTO Team carried out 382 assessments, had 237 new orders and achieved 131 successful completions.

The DTTO II team continues with its successful strategy in maintaining women in treatment with 50% of service users being female. The team also successfully ran a women's group co-facilitated by a female service user. The work experience project at Scotland Yard Adventure playground continues to be a success.

Arrest Referral

Annual data is not available for this service at this time.

10. Recommendations

That the Chief Officers Group notes the contents of this report.

That the Chief Officers Group agrees to receive a further update from Edinburgh Alcohol and Drug Partnership in October 2014.

Edinburgh Violence Against Women

Summary

This report summarises the activity of the Edinburgh Violence Against Women Partnership (EVAWP) for the year 2013-14.

Background

The Edinburgh Violence Against Women Partnership (EVAWP) adopts a broad definition of violence against women and is the formal multi-agency partnership (MAP's) within Edinburgh which has the overall aim to promote the delivery of an integrated, high quality response to violence against women. In accordance to the expectations laid out in the national strategy: Safer Lives: Changed Lives: A Shared Approach to Tackling Violence Against Women in Scotland, (The Scottish Government and COSLA, 2009), the EVAWP constitution defines our agreed broad definition that violence against women is "gender based" and accordingly recognises that such violence includes "forms of physical;sexual;psychological abuse; sexual harassment & intimidation at work and in the public sphere; commercial sexual exploitation- including prostitution, pornography and trafficking. This national Strategy is currently being reviewed and updated and the EVAWP have been closely involved in both responding to and shaping the proposed contents of this revised strategic framework. It is anticipated that this document – now known as Equally Safe- will be published in the summer of 2014 with the following as key priority areas & outcomes- which will consolidate the focus & workstreams which the EVAWP already has in place:

- Social Tolerance of all forms of violence against women & girls is reduced
- Situational; & structural risk factors are reduced and protective factors are strengthened
- The individual needs of women and girls affected by violence are fully met at the earliest point
- Perpetrators are less likely to offend

Whilst data regarding the incidence of all forms of gender based violence are not routinely nor accurately recorded by all services, the EVAWP has established a performance framework which will be further developed & regular updates on the agreed indicators will be reported by the VAWP. The number of domestic incidents recorded by the Edinburgh Command Area of Police Scotland between 1 April 2012 and 31 March 2013 is 5335. The number of child concern forms sent to Social Care Direct with domestic abuse as a concern in the same period was 3186 and the percentage of newly pregnant women who disclosed domestic abuse to healthcare staff was 8% (560 women)

Given known under-reporting, incidence is likely to be much higher. Statistics in Edinburgh show that perpetrators are predominantly male and women are the victims of such abuse. The cost to the Scottish economy from domestic abuse is estimated at £2.3 billion per year and £4 billion overall for all forms of violence against women (Walby 2008)

Summary Key statistics

VAW-01a Number of domestic abuse incidents	5313
VAW-9a Number of child concern forms sent to social care direct with domestic abuse as a concern	3186 – this equates to a third of the total concern forms sent to social care direct
VAW-04 Total number of people trained by the VAWP	1623
VAW-05 Total number of women and children provided refuge	168
VAW-06 Total number of new women supported by specialist services in the VAWP	3431
VAW-07 Total number of children and young people supported by specialist services in the VAWP	457
VAW-16 Number of referrals to EDDACS	343
VAW-17 Number of cases discussed at MARAC	106
VAW-20 Number of hits on CEC domestic abuse webpages	5,330
VAW-8 Number of new CPO's or probation orders with a condition of attendance at Caledonian	51

Linkages

The content of this report links to both national & local outcomes around the Human Rights Act 1998 and The Equality Act 2010 as well as within the Concordat- namely as follows :

- Coalition pledge area ‘Strengthening and supporting our communities and keeping them safe’.
- Edinburgh Partnership priority and Single Outcome Agreement priority ‘Edinburgh’s communities are safer and have improved physical and social fabric’.
- The key desired outcome of the Chief Officers Group ‘to reduce the risk of harm to individual members of the public of any age, whose circumstances, dependence, frailty, illness, disability or behaviours make them particularly vulnerable’.
- National Health and Care Integration Outcome 5 ‘Services are safe: people using health, social care and support services are safe-guarded from harm and have their dignity and human rights respected.’

Main report

The key functions of the Partnership as outlined in the constitution (previously circulated) are continuous improvement, strategic planning, public information and communication. The Partnership oversees activity carried out in its sub groups to reach the following strategic outcomes:

Strategic outcomes of the Partnership & Key Success Areas:

- Women and children are safer as a result of a coordinated and consistent response to violence against women
- Perpetrators are dealt with effectively and are less likely to reoffend
- Gender inequality in Edinburgh is reduced and gender based violence is prevented.

The strategic outcomes are based on the Scottish Government vision, coalition pledges, Single Outcome Agreement outcomes, national outcomes and the EVAWP outcomes for violence against women.

The past year has been an extremely busy year for the VAWP- and yet one of change in the loosing of the vice- chair (DCI Willie Guild) & the imminent departure of the current Chair (Lesley Johnston, NHS Lothian) as her period of tenure is completed.

In completing this report, I would like to highlight the many key success areas- summarised below and expanded upon in the main report.

Sub group structure

The sub group structure of the Partnership has been reviewed and the following sub groups have been agreed in March 2013:

- Learning and development
- Domestic abuse
- Sexual violence and exploitation

Sexual violence and exploitation sub group

Achievements 2013-14

This group has experienced an unfortunate change in key personnel to Chair this former thriving & effective grouping & the Chair of the EVAWP has increased her input on an interim basis – both by submitting a formal response on behalf of the EVAWP to the national Human (Scotland) Trafficking Bill (Dec 2013) & The Edinburgh Council Public Entertainment Consultation 9 Dec 2013). In addition, the EVAWP is a key member of the recently formed service providers “ Sex Work In Edinburgh” multi-agency group – which reported to Corporate Policy & Strategy Committee on 21 Jan 2014 with a harm reduction framework & a proposed Action Plan. There are ongoing urgent discussions with Police Senior Representatives to replace the Chair for this sub group to continue with the following key activities & some

- ✓ Improve intelligence, service provision & responses to victims of rape & sexual assault
- ✓ Participate in preventative work with established national & local initiatives & campaigns- with Zero Tolerance; SWA; Mentors Against Violence etc to reduce negative attitudes & behaviours towards sexual abuse & exploitation
- ✓ Ensure provision of services in Edinburgh for women affected by commercial sexual exploitation and development of information & resources to improve choices & options for those involved.

Domestic abuse sub group

Achievements 2013-14

Domestic abuse provision within Edinburgh

- The domestic abuse subgroup has continued to meet quarterly and terms of reference has been agreed. Membership has increased to include additional representatives from health and LGBT organisations. The new chief executive from Edinburgh Women's Aid is also attending.

- Edinburgh's Multi-agency Domestic Abuse Policy was agreed by the Edinburgh Partnership at the end of 2013. It provides guiding principles based on recent research and up-to-date guidance on how to achieve the best outcomes when carrying out multi-agency interventions with families affected by domestic abuse. Work is underway to raise awareness of the policy and how the principles can be formalised in practice.
- The domestic abuse subgroup developed a logic model for domestic abuse services in Edinburgh, which aligns provision with local and national outcomes. An associated domestic abuse action plan will form part of a wider violence against women action plan and accompanying performance framework.
- The subgroup developed the materials for the successful multi-agency domestic abuse campaign which was launched during November 2013 and included posters, leaflets and radio adverts. This was part of the wider Speak Up Speak Out public protection campaign. Domestic abuse also featured in the following campaign on internet safety and will continue to be included in ongoing public protection campaigns.
- The subgroup has had oversight of the domestic abuse case file which was carried out in April 2014. The audit focussed on the risk and needs assessments carried out by children and families and the extent to which they reflect best practice in domestic abuse. The results from the audit are being compiled and will be available in due course.
- Multi-agency guidance on forced marriage has been developed and is in the process of being agreed by the relevant public protection committees.
- The group regularly receives service updates from all agencies, which has been invaluable in the context of the extensive changes in domestic abuse service provision over recent years. Of particular note is Police Scotland's prioritisation of domestic abuse; the celebration of Women's Aid's 40th anniversary; the roll out of the domestic abuse court advocacy service and multi-agency risk assessments; and the expansion of the Mentors in Violence Prevention programme in more Edinburgh schools.

A subgroup has been developed to look at the needs of male and LGBT victims of domestic abuse. It aims to ensure that the needs of these groups are met by existing services and include representatives from male victim support groups and LGBT services.

A multi-agency coordinated community response model:

- ✓ The pilot of this model in south and east Edinburgh has been completed. It aimed to create a clear pathway from the initial reporting of a domestic abuse incident to the police, to support to the victim, a comprehensive risk assessment and the provision of multi-agency services based on risk and need.
- ✓ This model of working is already providing substantial results and increased safety for victims and their children. There were 343 victims referred to EDDACS, with just under a third of these being assessed as high risk. The high risk cases were referred to a multi-agency risk assessment conference.

- ✓ A review of the pilot has taken place. All agencies are committed to the process and an improvement plan has been put in place to ensure the existing MARAC runs efficiently and effectively.
- ✓ Further funding of the advocacy service was provided in part by the Chief Officer's Group and advocacy workers are now in post. The roll out of the advocacy service and MARAC process across the city is expected to take place in September 2014. A Report on MARAC has already been submitted to Chief Officers Group (re-attach) & a further Report on the Proposal for Roll Out is attached*

Learning and development sub group

- ✓ This recently established group has representatives from all partners. It is building on previous work by the Violence Against Women Training Consortia, which coordinated trainers for violence against women training & delivery across Edinburgh.
- ✓ Initially the group reviewed training across public protection and mapped out where violence against women training sits within other strategic groups. Three levels of training, from basic awareness to service specific training was included and is outlined in the violence against women action plan.
- ✓ A core group of staff from the NHS and the council developed training materials for a one day multiagency training course entitled 'Rethinking Domestic Abuse-Confident Practice and Safer Families'. It aims to introduce recent domestic abuse theory, impact and practice to professionals and assist them to work together to keep perpetrators at the centre of interventions and increase safety of victims.
- ✓ A free training for trainers event is being held on 2-3 June 2014. There has been a lot of interest from all partner agencies and this training event will equip a pool of trainers to provide the one day multiagency training. The aim is to offer one day of multi-agency domestic abuse training a month from September 2014.
- ✓ The group has also been looking into the development of an e-learning module for violence against women. Materials have been sourced from other part of Scotland and will be developed so they can be used within existing e-learning systems.

MVP In Edinburgh

The Mentors in Violence Prevention Programme – MVP Scotland provides the opportunity to embed within Scottish High Schools a sustainable approach to support health & wellbeing and positive relationships and explore links to different forms of abuse and violence. Edinburgh was selected as a pilot site (see below) and additional funding from the Equality Unit of The Government has allowed for an expansion & continuation of this successful initiative (see below).

Within Edinburgh, the schools involved in the initial pilot Portobello, St Stephens and Port Glasgow High school have started to repeat the process they started in 2012 and are on their second year of peer led delivery of MVP in their schools.

The MVP programme provides opportunities to discuss these very important issues and to promote health and wellbeing and positive relationships at a societal and individual level.

The report suggests (from the qualitative aspects in particular) that MVP has provided a number of successful outcomes. The quantitative aspects of the report showed that attitudes changed significantly post-intervention, indicating 'less traditional' and more progressive views towards women. Some similar findings identified from US evaluation were found. The Mentors understanding of the issues and skills base showed significant progression and development.

MVP was found to give young people tools to identify issues as emergencies as well as empowering them to support friends.

1. Outcomes- which also support the new VAW Strategy- Equally Safe

It is intended that this project will have the following outcomes.

- To improve mental and physical health, well-being and resilience of young people in Edinburgh.
- Young people in Edinburgh will have access to violence reduction education under Curriculum for Excellence in mainstream and specialist education.
- Young people will develop confidence and understanding around healthy positive relationships and be able to identify and safely challenge abusive behaviours and attitudes within their own relationships and amongst their peers.

Areas for Development

The existing performance framework will be further developed and regular updates on the indicators will be provided by members of the partnership.

Guidance on female genital mutilation- in line with new national guidelines & procedures is being developed in conjunction with the Child Protection Committee

A mapping of current processes and services in order to identify value, duplication and delays. This mapping exercise will highlight where reducing steps in the system can improve flow, capacity and achieve better outcomes.

- The development of a coordinated community response model.
- Work within Sub Misuse Hubs
- The development of a performance framework across all partners is a key activity for the EVAWP for 2013. Data regarding the incidence of gender based violence is not currently recorded routinely or accurately by all services. With the recent changes in the policing landscape in Scotland, a strong focus on domestic abuse is developing and Police Scotland is a key partner in providing data of gender based violence incidence in Edinburgh. NHS Lothian are currently gathering all gender based violence related data. Once this is available, the EVAWP will establish how this can be used to gain a clearer picture of the scope and of current service provision. Good practice examples from other Violence Against Women Partnerships in Scotland which have a comprehensive performance framework in place (Dundee and Highland) are being taken into consideration.
- The establishment of a quality assurance sub group.
- The development of a shared policy or vision statement across health, police the council and the voluntary sector which highlights domestic abuse as a priority and agrees to the development of a coordinated and consistent response in Edinburgh.
- A mapping of current processes and services in order to identify value, duplication and delays. This mapping exercise will highlight where reducing steps in the system can improve flow, capacity and achieve better outcomes.
- Coordinated workforce training across all agencies to establish a shared understanding of domestic abuse, the pathway in Edinburgh and the part each agency plays.
- The development of a domestic abuse action plan which clearly outlines the steps towards the coordinated community response model.

Decisions and support from the Chief Officers Group

It is recommended that the Chief Officers Group:

- notes the content of this report
- notes to the forthcoming change in Chairing arrangements
- supports the Partnership in the further development of its draft performance framework
- agrees to receive regular updates on performance in the area of violence against women.

Definition: Policy – A course of action or set of standards adopted by the City of Edinburgh Council.

This document may be out of date if printed, the latest version is available on the Council Intranet.

1. PURPOSE

This policy is a statement of commitment from all partners in Edinburgh and provides a set of guiding principles and definitions in relation to the prevention of domestic abuse, the support and protection of victims and the management of perpetrators. It is based on awareness of the extent and impact of domestic abuse and the belief shared by all partners that it is never acceptable and will not be tolerated. It aims to reduce the risk generated by the lack of a shared understanding between services and agencies of the definition of domestic abuse, its causes and how it should be responded to.

The consequences of domestic abuse are widespread. It is devastating for victims, their children and society as a whole. Our vision is to work in partnership to encourage a community where domestic abuse does not happen and where, until then, all its victims, including children, are offered effective support and protection, whilst at the same time perpetrators are held to account and supported to change their attitudes and behaviours.

2. SCOPE

This policy statement is adopted by the Edinburgh Partnership and all the national and local agencies that work in Edinburgh to tackle domestic abuse and wider forms of gender based violence. It highlights domestic abuse as a priority in all areas of public protection, and sets out the key shared principles of effective intervention, with which all agencies' operations and procedures will be consistent. It will inform the development of the Edinburgh Violence Against Women Partnership domestic abuse action plan, which will be aligned with both the local and national Violence Against Women Strategies, currently being developed by the Scottish Government Equalities Unit and the Edinburgh Violence Against Women Partnership respectively.

3. DEFINITIONS

The Partnership adopts a broad definition of domestic abuse articulated by the Scottish Government:

Domestic abuse (as gender-based abuse) can be perpetrated by partners or ex-partners and can include physical abuse (assault and physical attack involving a range of behaviour), sexual abuse (acts which degrade and humiliate victims and are perpetrated against their will, including rape) and mental and emotional abuse (such as threats, verbal abuse, racial abuse, withholding money and other types of controlling behaviour, such as isolation from family and friends).

Domestic abuse can be understood within the wider context of gender-based violence, which is defined as violence directed against a person on the basis of their gender. It is men who predominantly carry out such violence, and women who are predominantly the victims. For example, women and girls are predominantly the victims of domestic abuse, rape and sexual assault, female genital mutilation, forced marriage and sexual harassment. Referring to violence as 'gender-based' highlights the need to understand violence within the context of women's and girls' disadvantaged status in society. Such violence cannot be understood in isolation from the norms, social structure and gender roles within the community, which greatly influence women's vulnerability to violence.

Defining abuse as 'gender-based' means that interventions with victims and perpetrators need to be based on an understanding of what it means to be a man or woman within any given societal context. For example, men who abuse may justify their behaviour with reference to societal expectations of how women, and indeed men, should behave.

Domestic abuse can also be perpetrated against men; it can involve transsexual people and can occur within same sex relationships. Male victims of domestic abuse may find it difficult to report abuse because of gendered notions in society and in the services they approach, relating to masculinity and help-seeking. Someone's experience of domestic abuse can also intersect in complex ways with other protected characteristics like age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex and sexual orientation.

It is important that any interventions with perpetrators or victims are sensitive to all parts of that person's life, on which the abuse may impact. The guiding principles for intervention outlined in this document can be applied to all the different contexts in which domestic abuse can occur.

4. POLICY STATEMENT

Guiding principles for Domestic Abuse Intervention

In order to achieve better outcomes for families affected by domestic abuse, the Partnership agrees to the following guiding principles:

4.1 Solutions are best achieved through partnerships and collaborative working

Domestic abuse is a cross-cutting issue. All available evidence suggests that it is addressed most effectively by a joined up, partnership approach, which includes statutory and voluntary organisations, all accepting a shared responsibility, whilst understanding their unique role. We are committed to a shared vision and to united, sustained and effective action across all agencies and disciplines. This commitment is evidenced by our adoption of these shared principles and our pursuit of common objectives.

4.2 Better outcomes are achieved when there is a universal, systematic approach to risk assessment and decision making

Effective early intervention requires frontline professionals to be trained in identifying and managing risk, specifically related to domestic abuse. They should be able to support victims if domestic abuse is known, suspected or disclosed; share information where appropriate; and have knowledge of the resources available. Our aim is to develop clear service-specific and multi-agency pathways from the suspicion, allegation or identification of domestic abuse to support for the victim and family, tackling the perpetrator's behaviour and attitudes, and intervening in accordance with the level of risk.

A shared understanding of risk and vulnerability factors among all agencies will assist the multi-agency collaboration and management of domestic abuse cases and ensure the needs, safety and well being of victims are key priorities. It is essential to ensure that victims receive help and achieve safety as early as possible. The gathering and sharing of information should be considered in all cases, particularly where there are children. This will ensure that agencies can respond appropriately at the earliest possible stage, in order to increase the safety of victims and prevent further abuse. Lawful and responsible information-sharing and robust information sharing protocols are vital to help keep victims and their children safe; to facilitate risk assessment; to provide support and advocacy services; and to hold perpetrators to account for their behaviour. A focus on early identification, assessment and intervention, including the provision of skilled and attentive universal services, in conjunction with the availability of and access to specialist services, is the best way to keep victims safe.

4.3 Partners will work together to protect victims and children and to hold the perpetrators to account

Research tells us that if the victim is not safe, it is unlikely that the children will be. The National Child Protection Guidelines in Scotland \(2010\) state:

The impact of domestic abuse on a child should be understood as a consequence of the perpetrator choosing to use violence, rather than of the non-abusing parent's / carer's failure to protect. Every effort should be made to work with the non-abusing parent / carer to ensure adequate and appropriate support and protection are in place to enable them to make choices that are safe for both them and the child. At the same time, staff should be maintaining a focus on the perpetrator and monitoring any risk resulting from ongoing abuse.

As well as holding the perpetrator to account and managing their risk, agencies should work with them to change their abusive behaviour. This will not only increase the safety of current victims, but other families in the future. Allowing perpetrators to remain invisible puts the burden of change on victims, but also places them at significant risk of continuing harm. The victim's parenting may have been undermined as part of the abuse they have experienced. Agencies should work to reinforce the authority of the protective parent. Mental and physical ill-health, substance abuse and non-engagement with services should all be understood as possible symptoms and consequences of the abuse the victim has suffered.

Agencies intervening in relation to domestic abuse cases where there are children resident in the household, or with significant connection to the adult involved, should work in accordance with the principles of Getting It Right For Every Child. It is likely that children affected by domestic abuse will need a higher level of support than most children. This means that they should have a child's plan detailing what support will be provided, by whom and when, in order to keep them safe and promote their wellbeing. Agencies' intervention with adults should be consistent with the child's plan.

4.4 Protection needs to be long-term and should not cease after separation between the abuser and victim

A tendency to respond to singular incidents of physical violence fails to recognise the pattern of other abusive and controlling behaviours and their wide ranging impact on both adult and child victims. Research shows that families may receive 'start-stop' interventions, which cease when couples are seen to have separated. This results in poor outcomes for families, particularly as domestic abuse can be characterised by repeated separation and reconciliation. Periodic intervention does not address the complex issues involved and fails to recognise domestic abuse as a long-term, chronic problem with a cumulative impact, which can include complex trauma. Separation is a time of increased risk. It can lead to an escalation of violence, stalking and harassing behaviour, and conflict over child contact. Services should work together to monitor and support families over the long term, particularly those with multiple or complex needs.

4.5 Up-to-date training, information and guidance for agencies and individuals across the partnership will improve the quality of service to all victims, their children and perpetrators

A consistent, holistic approach to domestic abuse through the development of a skilled workforce and robust inter-agency training is essential. Victims of domestic abuse and the cultural change we want to see depend on both specialist services and generic and universal services being confident and competent in identifying domestic abuse and responding appropriately. A comprehensive training programme is essential and should include both single and multi-agency training at all levels. It should take account of the wide-ranging existing training, which is delivered by both the statutory and voluntary sectors. Organisations should provide opportunities for critical reflection and practice evaluation for workers. Additionally, multi-agency self evaluation can be used to improve and develop practice. This will create coherent, comprehensive and sustained learning, which builds expertise and confidence, and improves practice over time.

Research shows that without adequate awareness, training and support, practitioners are likely to avoid identifying and engaging constructively with those affected by abuse and with perpetrators. Gender based violence and domestic abuse training should bring about a shift in culture and practice so that all agencies have the capacity and commitment to develop interventions, which respond appropriately to the needs of adult and child victims and hold perpetrators to account.

This document may be out of date if printed, the latest version is available on the Council Intranet.

4.6 Strategies to address domestic abuse should include primary and secondary prevention

Historically, some services have been reactive in nature, often responding to problems once they have become serious enough to have come to the attention of agencies. Although providing services to victims of domestic abuse is essential, tackling the root causes is the only way to eradicate it. Primary prevention seeks to prevent violence before it happens and targets the whole population, but particularly children and young people. It is largely focused on attitudinal and cultural change, including a critical reflection of historic and ongoing gender inequality, as well as the influence of the media. Secondary prevention targets perpetrators of abuse and victims who have experienced it. Both prevention strands need to continue to be included in domestic abuse service provision in Edinburgh.

4.7 The implementation of a domestic abuse action plan requires effective and accountable governance structures

A multi-agency domestic abuse action plan is being developed, involving all key partners. Clearly defined indicators and targets closely linked to the goals and objectives set out in the Violence Against Women Performance Framework will be used to monitor the progress of the plan's objectives and to evaluate the effectiveness of the plan's activities. In order to do this, partners commit to sharing data within agreed protocols, and evaluating interventions. Regular reports on the implementation and progress of the plan will be provided to the Violence Against Women Partnership and the Edinburgh Chief Officers' Group – Public Protection. Service users will be consulted and involved in any significant changes to policy and provision.

The Violence Against Women Partnership's domestic abuse action plan will be integrated with the strategies and plans of Edinburgh's other public protection committees (adult, child, offender management and drug and alcohol partnership) and reflect the existing policies and practice of the City of Edinburgh Council, NHS Lothian, Police Scotland and voluntary sector partners. This will promote collaboration across all service areas, particularly between adult, child and public protection.

4.8 Adequate resources need to be allocated to achieve good outcomes for families affected by domestic abuse

It is important that services are resourced adequately and appropriately. In an economic climate, which requires us to spend less and work more efficiently, partners need to consider how staffing and financial resources can be used more effectively to achieve the improvement to which we aspire. The partners are committed to exploring the best way to target spending and access additional national and local resources to achieve the most positive outcomes.

5. RESPONSIBILITIES

This policy will be monitored by the Edinburgh Partnership and the Edinburgh Chief Officers' Group – Public Protection. All agencies within the partnership will be supported to adopt this policy as a minimum standard, with acknowledgement and recognition of existing strategic

Document [124]

BACKGROUND

Domestic abuse is costly, in both financial and human terms. Research has estimated that the cost of domestic abuse to the Scottish public purse is £2.3 billion. The costs are high, principally because opportunities for early intervention and prevention are missed routinely, leading to more expensive interventions later.

The monetary impact of dealing with domestic abuse is less significant than the costs to society. The ripple effects are long-term and far reaching; not just for the individuals and their children, but for the wider community. Domestic abuse features heavily in the lives of children on the Child Protection Register, looked after children, young offenders and in those displaying bullying and disruptive classroom behaviour. Domestic abuse is also a feature in the lives of many people with mental health problems, people who misuse alcohol and drugs and women offenders. It is a factor in many violent crime figures, including murder, and in a substantial number of homeless applications and disputed child contact cases, which tie up family courts.

The number of domestic incidents recorded by Police Scotland has increased steadily over the last four years to around 5300 in Edinburgh. In approximately 45% of these incidents, children were identified as present or resident in the home. These figures are concerning. Witnessing or experiencing domestic abuse represents one of the most serious risks to children in our society. This is reflected in the number of cases added to the Edinburgh Child Protection Register. Between August 2011 and July 2012, domestic abuse was identified as a concern in 40% of all registrations. As well as the risks related to domestic abuse, there is also a significant correlation with other child protection issues. Where domestic abuse is identified, it is related to emotional abuse in just over half the cases; parental alcohol and drug misuse in over a third; neglect and physical abuse in just under a quarter, and sexual abuse in just under a tenth.

Domestic abuse has a devastating impact on the adult victim. Far from being limited to physical assault, the abuse can have a long-term emotional and psychological impact, which can cause knock-on effects to almost every other area of their life. Similarly, the physical, psychological and emotional effects of domestic abuse on children can be severe and long-lasting. Domestic abuse can disrupt a child's environment profoundly, undermining their stability and damaging their physical, mental and emotional health. Domestic abuse during pregnancy also has a long-term and wide-ranging impact on the mother and child.

The response of services to both the victims and perpetrators of domestic abuse is critical. Given its widespread nature, it is likely that it will be uncovered in a range of settings when services are engaging with families in Edinburgh. Whilst it is essential to guarantee that there are specialist services to tackle domestic abuse, we also need to ensure that professionals across all service areas know what to do when they interact with known or suspected perpetrators or victims. It is not enough for mainstream services to rely on referral to specialist resources, and a coordinated, informed response from universal and generic children and adult services is essential.

Edinburgh benefits from highly skilled professionals who are passionate in this field and are already at the forefront of innovation. Further co-ordination across all stakeholders will avoid responses becoming fractured and therefore less effective. Effective joint working, based on shared principles and priorities support positive outcomes for victims and their children. It is important that perpetrators are not left unaccountable for their actions, free to continue to abuse their current or future partners. The current change in focus from Police Scotland to the increased targeting of perpetrators is welcome and will form an integrated part of this work. By agreeing a shared understanding of the issues, progress can be made towards a consistent and better integrated approach. This document highlights domestic abuse as a priority in all areas of public protection, and sets out the key shared principles of effective intervention.

SUPPORTING THE HEALTH AND WELL BEING OF YOUNG PEOPLE WITHIN THE CITY OF EDINBURGH

INTRODUCTION OF MENTORS IN VIOLENCE PREVENTION (MVP)
PROGRAM WITHIN THE SCOTTISH HIGH SCHOOL SETTING

ABSTRACT

The Mentors in Violence Prevention Programme – MVP Scotland provides the opportunity to embed within Scottish High Schools a sustainable approach to support health & wellbeing and positive relationships and explore links to different forms of abuse and violence. Whilst the majority of young people don't bully or abuse they possess the power to influence peers and provide a positive climate in which these behaviours don't exist.

The Scottish Violence Reduction Unit (VRU)

Introduction

The prevention of all forms of abuse and violence is a key priority for Scottish Government, Police Scotland and a range of other organisations. Improving health and wellbeing and promoting healthy relationships is a key focus and responsibility for us all.

The Edinburgh Community Planning Partnership aim to achieve a number of outcomes which include;

- Edinburgh's communities are safer and have improved physical and social fabric
- Edinburgh's citizens experience improved health and well-being with reduced inequalities in health
- Edinburgh's children and young people enjoy their childhood and fulfil their potential

Although the biggest influence on children and young people is their parents and carers, as they go through their teenage years the influence of their peers increasingly becomes more important. Education provides us with a universal opportunity to support the development of healthy positive relationships and the MVP approach offers excellent opportunities through the Curriculum for Excellence to create an environment where young people can consider and explore the many social issues of abuse and violence within the context of relationships.

1. Background

None of us want to think that violence exists in our society but it does and it is preventable. It is the behaviours and attitudes that can lead to violence and it's not just the physical acts that we need to tackle as a society. For young people in Scotland there exists a range of behaviours that are considered normal. Incidences of 'sexting' and teen dating abuse are on the rise. The impact of the internet and the use of social media has resulted in the term 'cyber-bullying' becoming all too common in today's schools. The result is that some young people are failing to identify these issues as damaging and so reducing their ability to act and support friends. Challenging negative attitudes and re-enforcing positive behaviours are key to strengthening relationships and so reducing the potential for these behaviours to be ignored and become the norm amongst young people.

In Scotland violence against women remains unacceptably high and we have national strategies and organisations working to both prevent abuse and ensure appropriate interventions. Nationwide statistics suggest that in their life-time between 1 in 3 and 1 in 5 women will experience a form of men's violence against women. In recent years in Scotland there have been annually, around 60,000 incidents of domestic abuse reported to the police and in 2012/13, 1372 rapes were reported to the Police and a study by NSPCC showed that a third of teenage girls in a relationships suffered unwanted sexual behaviours.

In order to reduce these unacceptable incidents and ultimately prevent them occurring in the first place we must seek to change and influence positive attitudes especially amongst young people. That is why the MVP Programme which supports individuals to identify harmful attitudes and safely intervene is so valuable.

The MVP programme provides opportunities to discuss these very important issues and to promote health and wellbeing and positive relationships at a societal and individual level.

2. MVP Scotland

In 2011 in collaboration with MVP creator Jackson Katz, the VRU began working with a number of local authorities seeking two test sites to look at embedding the MVP program into the high school setting.

In 2012 the VRU engaged further local authorities and in turn provided MVP training for four further schools.

The schools involved in the initial pilot Portobello, St Stephens and Port Glasgow High school have started to repeat the process they started in 2012 and are on their second year of peer led delivery of MVP in their schools.

<http://actiononviolence.co.uk/content/mvp-evaluation-report>

The report suggests (from the qualitative aspects in particular) that MVP has provided a number of successful outcomes. The quantitative aspects of the report showed that attitudes changed significantly post-intervention, indicating 'less traditional' and more progressive views towards women. Some similar findings identified from US evaluation were found. The Mentors understanding of the issues and skills base showed significant progression and development.

MVP was found to give young people tools to identify issues as emergencies as well as empowering them to support friends.

3. The future of MVP and sustainability within the City of Edinburgh.

The Violence Reduction Unit have developed and tested a suitable training programme which will allow future training to be carried out without the need for direct involvement from the US. Recent funding provided by Scottish Government Equalities Unit has provided further capacity with the recruitment of a further trainer from The City of Edinburgh Council. This post will support the dissemination of MVP across City of Edinburgh secondary schools.

It is agreed that sustainability of MVP will be further supported through the training of local MVP training teams allowing the VRU to support local trainers who will continue to work with schools. The ongoing work within Portobello HS confirms that with minimal support the MVP model can be sustained within a school providing opportunities for all young people to benefit from the MVP approach.

An Edinburgh Strategic steering group met on the 11th February. This initial meeting agreed that the MVP Programme presents a real opportunity to deliver prevention focused work within City of Edinburgh High Schools linked to Curriculum for Excellence. Membership of the group included representatives from

- Children & Families Department (Support for Children and Young People, Schools and Community Learning and Development)
- Police Scotland
- NHS Lothian (Healthy Respect & the lead for Gender Based Violence)
- Edinburgh's Violence against Women Partnership
- Education Scotland

4. Partners

The above organisations are considered key partners in the future development of MVP across Edinburgh. The plan below is based on the assumption that each partner fully supports the ongoing development of the MVP model. Proposed roles are contained within each partner description.

City of Edinburgh Council (CEC) – CEC will support the widening of MVP into all High Schools in the authority area. Through the Edinburgh Steering group CEC will look at the wider learning environment to provide support to High Schools. The MVP programme will be supported as a key delivery model to support a range of prevention within local High Schools.

Scottish Violence Reduction Unit – The VRU as a member of the Building Safer Communities will continue to provide the experience and coordination for the MVP model. The VRU will deliver initial MVP training to identified schools. The VRU will support local MVP trainers to deliver MVP training to further schools across the city.

Education Scotland – Providing links to the Curriculum for Excellence is key to embedding MVP within the high school setting. Education Scotland will identify these links as well as other areas where MVP can support Educational settings. They will work with VRU and the authority in supporting the development of the MVP Programme across the authority.

NHS Lothian – Will link MVP to other prevention and mainstream services and programmes within NHS Lothian (sexual health etc..) and provide relevant information around support services to support each area in signposting to appropriate services – such as mental health and wellbeing and other GBV services if disclosures are made during the programme.

Edinburgh's Violence against Women Partnership – Will provide a link to current developments and strategies within City of Edinburgh and ensure the multi-agency partnership integrates the work of MVP into wider initiatives and prevention programmes.

Police Scotland – Violence Preventions and Interventions. Will provide link to Police Strategies, campaigns and developments.

We are in the process of identifying a representative from the Voluntary Sector.

5. Project Plan

Initial scoping work carried out by the VRU have identified the six CSMG boundaries – East, North, Total Craigoyston, South, South west and West. Within each of these areas a range of services exist which could support the future development of MVP both in the short and long term.

A number of issues were discussed and agreed upon and form the basis for taking the MVP model across the city. These are detailed within the following section.

The following information details plans for 2014 – 2016. The Edinburgh MVP Steering Group will work to

- Develop an agreed terms of reference for this group. This will detail its role, determine membership and agree a structure to report progress within the City of Edinburgh Council and Community Planning Partnership.
- Identify an implementation approach utilising existing CSMG boundaries with an initial focus on the East and 'Total Craigoyston'.
- Support the delivery of the MVP Programme within these areas with a view to widening MVP across the City of Edinburgh.
- Will work with the VRU to develop an Edinburgh based MVP training team.

6. Outcomes

It is intended that this project will have the following outcomes.

- To improve mental and physical health, well-being and resilience of young people in Edinburgh.
- Young people in Edinburgh will have access to violence reduction education under Curriculum for Excellence in mainstream and specialist education.
- Young people will develop confidence and understanding around healthy positive relationships and be able to identify and safely challenge abusive behaviours and attitudes within their own relationships and amongst their peers.

A number of other outcomes will evolve as the programme is developed. Education Scotland have already linked the MVP Programme to health and well-being experiences and outcomes within Curriculum for Excellence. Work is ongoing to make further links to CfE, GIRFEC and other educational agendas. The VRU will work with local authorities in identifying initial baseline indicators and make comparisons as the model progresses.

7. Evaluation

There is a national evaluation for measuring shifts in attitudes and behaviour for the young people who take part in the MVP programme and for staff who receive training. Evaluation is an area where City of Edinburgh may like to identify how the impact across the authority is going to be measured.

8. Conclusion

MVP offers a consistent approach in Edinburgh to tackle some of the behaviours and attitudes that can lead to bullying, abusive and violent behaviour. MVP will contribute to Edinburgh's Community Planning Partnerships outcomes and enable our younger citizens to play an active role in achieving these. Introducing the MVP program into our High school and community settings offers great potential to embed something not only into our schools but within the Youth Strategy and curriculum also. Whilst there is a reference to violence and abuse the ultimate focus for this work is to improve mental and physical health, well-being and resilience for young people across Scotland.

It is agreed that the MVP model provides positive outcomes for young people. The future of the MVP programme will work towards sustaining it both locally and nationally.

Multi-Agency Risk Assessment Case Conferences

Proposal for Roll out across the city

In January 2012 a Domestic Abuse Court pilot was established in the South and East Operational Command Area (OCA) of Edinburgh. The court was supported by advocacy workers from the Edinburgh Domestic Abuse Court Support Service (EDDACS) which is hosted by Edinburgh Woman's Aid. EDDACS workers complete a risk assessment (DASH 2009) on women who chose to accept the service within 24 hours of a domestic abuse incident where the police have been called out.

In April 2013, Multi-Agency Risk Assessment (MARAC's) were established in the pilot area. Women were referred to a MARAC where they had scored 14 or more on the DASH (2009) and a multi-agency response was developed to increase the safety of the women and children. The MARAC met once a month for 3.5 hours and discussed a maximum of 12 cases, including some repeat cases. Currently cases can only be referred into the MARAC through EDDACS although it is hoped that this could be expanded to include referrals from other agencies.

It is being proposed that the Domestic Abuse Court will be rolled out across the city and it is likely that this will commence in January 2015. This paper will lay out a proposal for how the MARAC's might also be rolled out to meet the increased demand.

It has been suggested that rather than developing MARAC's in each OCA, a city wide approach would be adopted. This would allow the most concerning cases to be referred to the MARAC and would maintain consistent thresholds across the city.

The proposal would be that MARAC's would run for one day each month. The day would be organised in geographical areas e.g. South and East, North and Central, West and Pentlands, which would allow staff to attend for the part of the day relevant to them but would also allow cases that were scoring most highly on the risk assessment to be given priority.

During the pilot, chairing has been shared between Criminal Justice Social Work and Police and I would suggest that this continues, with each agency taking responsibility for half a day each month. Alternatively we could consider a chair taking responsibility for each OCA and providing cover for each other.

Currently we aim to discuss 12 cases in 3 hours, including a review of actions. I would suggest that the maximum number of cases a full day MARAC could discuss is 24. Over a year this would allow us to discuss 288 cases. Another possibility is that we move to a 4 weekly MARAC which would increase the number of cases discussed annually to 312.

Based on our experience to date, it is possible to estimate how many cases would meet MARAC thresholds across the city. This estimate varies depending on what proportion of business is dealt with through the South and East pilot area; estimates vary from 20 - 25%.

Column 1 is an estimate of the number of cases citywide which meet these thresholds where South and East represent 20% of the business; Column 2 is where South and East represent 25% of the business. These figures do not include cases that are referred on the basis of escalation/professional judgement, but those tend to make up relatively few of our EDDACS cases. Repeats should already been included. Using these percentages we can estimate how cases would score on the DASH 2009 across the city.

Risk Assessment Score DASH 2009	Column 1 – 20%	Column 2 – 25%
15 plus	355	284
16 plus	275	220
17 plus	195	156
18 plus	130	104

These figures suggest that a threshold of 15 plus would generate between 284 and 355 cases across the city in a year. A four weekly MARAC would create capacity for 312 cases to be discussed. If we adopted 15 as our initial threshold for referral into a MARAC, we could review it as required over time.

I therefore propose the following

- 4 weekly MARACS
- Each MARACs would run from 9am – 5pm, with a lunch break.
- 24 cases would be discussed each day with action updates
- Business would be organised geographically to maximise staff time
- The threshold for referral would be 15 on the DASH 2009
- This would be reviewed after 6 months

'Our Glass House' - domestic abuse awareness raising event

The Commonwealth theatre company will stage 'Our Glass House', a site specific event staged in a disused house that explores domestic violence, during the Edinburgh Festival in August 2013. The event explores the complexities of domestic abuse and wider forms of gender based violence including the impact upon children and young people.

Target audience

Police, Health, Social Work, Education, Housing, local residents & community groups.

Funding

Total costs are estimated at £17,000 (budget available).

Confirmed contributions:

Lothian and Borders Police	£5,000
NHS	£4,000
Health and Social Care	£2,000
Scottish Government	£2,000

A local South West Housing Association (Prospect Housing) is providing a large residential vacant property in the Wester Hailes area for a free rental period of 8 weeks

The event will be hosted over a 2 week period, twice a day. 30 people can attend per show. Up to 720 people can attend in total. Tickets will be free but will need to be booked in advance. The Steering Group (Chaired by Lesley Johnston, Chair of EVAWP) has agreed a ticket allocation for key agencies, & a proportion for Press & Festival Box Office. This allocation includes schools; voluntary sector; statutory services and the community via Prospect Housing.

Details of the show

'Our Glass House' is a site-specific event staged in a disused house-there is no violence or perpetrators in the show. The company explores why people may stay in abusive relationships and how they may eventually leave. The show is based on real-life testimonies from interviews with women and men who have experienced domestic violence. The event incorporates different domestic abuse scenarios within each room of the house. Action happens simultaneously with audience free to choose their own journeys. 'Our Glass House' features six characters, each occupies a different room in the house and is representative of different backgrounds, class, race, age and gender. The show is followed by a structured discussion with the audience about domestic abuse and is linked to providing audience with information about local services and sources of support for victims.

Feedback

'Our Glass House' was staged in North Bristol, commissioned by Bristol City Council, funded by different agencies. It was perceived as being more effective at bringing the reality of what it is like to live in a controlling relationship than many training days.

Aim

The aim of this document is to inform and support the work of practitioners who are responsible for protecting children and adults from the abuse associated with forced marriage. It outlines how practice in relation to forced marriage is aligned with existing structures, policies and procedures designed to protect children and adults with support needs and those experiencing domestic abuse.

What is forced marriage?

A forced marriage is where one or both people do not (or in cases of people with learning disabilities, cannot) consent to the marriage, and pressure or abuse is used. It is an indefensible practice and is recognised in the UK as a form of violence against women and men, domestic/child abuse and a serious abuse of human rights. The pressure put on people to marry against their will can be physical (including threats, actual physical violence and sexual violence) or emotional and psychological (for example, when someone is made to feel they are bringing shame on their family). Financial abuse (taking wages or not giving the person any money) can also be a factor.

Parents who force their children to marry often justify their behaviour as protecting their children, building stronger families and preserving cultural or religious traditions. However, forced marriage cannot be justified on religious grounds; every major faith condemns it.

Victims are under immense pressure to conform to the wishes of family. This can be accompanied by physical, emotional and sexual abuse. It is not uncommon for victims to be killed (so-called 'honour' killing) or to commit suicide. The circumstances of forced marriage are such that victims may remain with or return to families, or not be able to follow through on actions. This is not a failure on their part. Services should continue to be available to victims.

What is arranged marriage?

Arranged marriage is an ancient and evolving tradition, whereby families take the lead role in helping to choose the marriage partner, but the marriage takes place with the consent of both parties and either party can change his/her mind at any time, without any negative repercussions.

In cases where a young person appears to be happy about an engagement to be married, if they are under 16, they are not able to consent to such an arrangement and are therefore being forced to marry. Likewise, people with learning disabilities may be unable to give true consent as a result of not fully understanding the implications of what they are agreeing to. In these circumstances the marriage would be forced, rather than arranged.

Who may be affected?

Both women and men can be forced into marriage, although most cases involve women aged between 13 and 30. People with physical and learning disabilities may be forced into marriage by families wanting to ensure their long-term care. Lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) people can also be affected.

Most reported cases in the UK so far have involved South Asian families (Pakistani, Indian and Bangladeshi). This partly reflects the large, established South Asian population in the UK. There have been cases involving East Asian, Middle Eastern, European and African communities as well. Forced marriage is not associated with particular religions or religious practices, and has been recorded across different communities. Some forced marriages take place in Scotland with no overseas element, while others involve a partner travelling to the UK from overseas or a British national being sent abroad.

What is the impact of forced marriage?

Isolation is one of the biggest problems facing those trapped in, or under threat of, a forced marriage. They may feel they have no one to speak to about their situation – some may not be able to speak English. These feelings of isolation are very similar to those experienced by victims of other forms of domestic and child abuse. Only rarely will an individual disclose fear of forced marriage. Therefore, someone who fears they may be forced to marry will often come to the attention of health professionals, police, social care services, education services or other professionals for various behaviours consistent with distress.

Young people forced to marry, or those who fear they may be forced to marry, are frequently withdrawn from education, restricting their educational and personal development. They may feel unable to go against the wishes of their parents and be threatened with disownment if they do – consequently they may suffer emotionally, often leading to depression and self-harm. These factors can contribute to impaired social development, limited career and educational opportunities, financial dependence and lifestyle restrictions. Self-harm and suicide are also possible consequences.

Children and adults with support needs are particularly vulnerable to forced marriage and its consequences because they are often reliant on their families for care; they may have communication difficulties; and they may have fewer opportunities to tell anyone outside the family about what is happening to them.

There have been reports of children and adults with mental health needs, learning and physical disabilities being forced to marry. Some adults with support needs do not have the capacity to consent to the marriage. Some children and adults with support needs may be unable to consent to consummate the marriage. Sexual intercourse without consent is rape. There are various other offences under the Sexual Offences Act 2009, relating to a person with a mental disorder.

What are the possible consequences of forced marriage?

Women forced to marry may find it very difficult to initiate any action to end the marriage and may be subjected to repeated rape (sometimes until they become pregnant) and ongoing domestic abuse within the marriage. In some cases, they suffer violence and abuse from the extended family, often being forced to undertake all the household chores for the family. Victims frequently become trapped in a relationship marked by physical and sexual abuse. The impact this has on children within the marriage is serious. Children may learn that it is acceptable to be abusive and that violence is an effective way to get what is wanted. They may learn that violence is justified, particularly when angry with another person. Children witnessing abuse can be traumatized, because witnessing persistent violence undermines children's emotional security and capacity to meet the demands of everyday life. Children's academic abilities can be affected. Witnessing violence as a child is associated with depression, trauma-related symptoms and low self-esteem in adulthood.

Legal context

Forced marriage is an abuse of children's rights under the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. It is also an abuse of the basic human rights of children, young people and adults, as set out in the European Convention on Human Rights, and is contrary to the domestic laws of Scotland and the other UK countries. There may be associated criminal activities, such as abduction, physical abuse and threats. The Forced Marriage etc (Protection and Jurisdiction) (Scotland) Act was passed in 2011 and creates Forced Marriage Protection Orders.

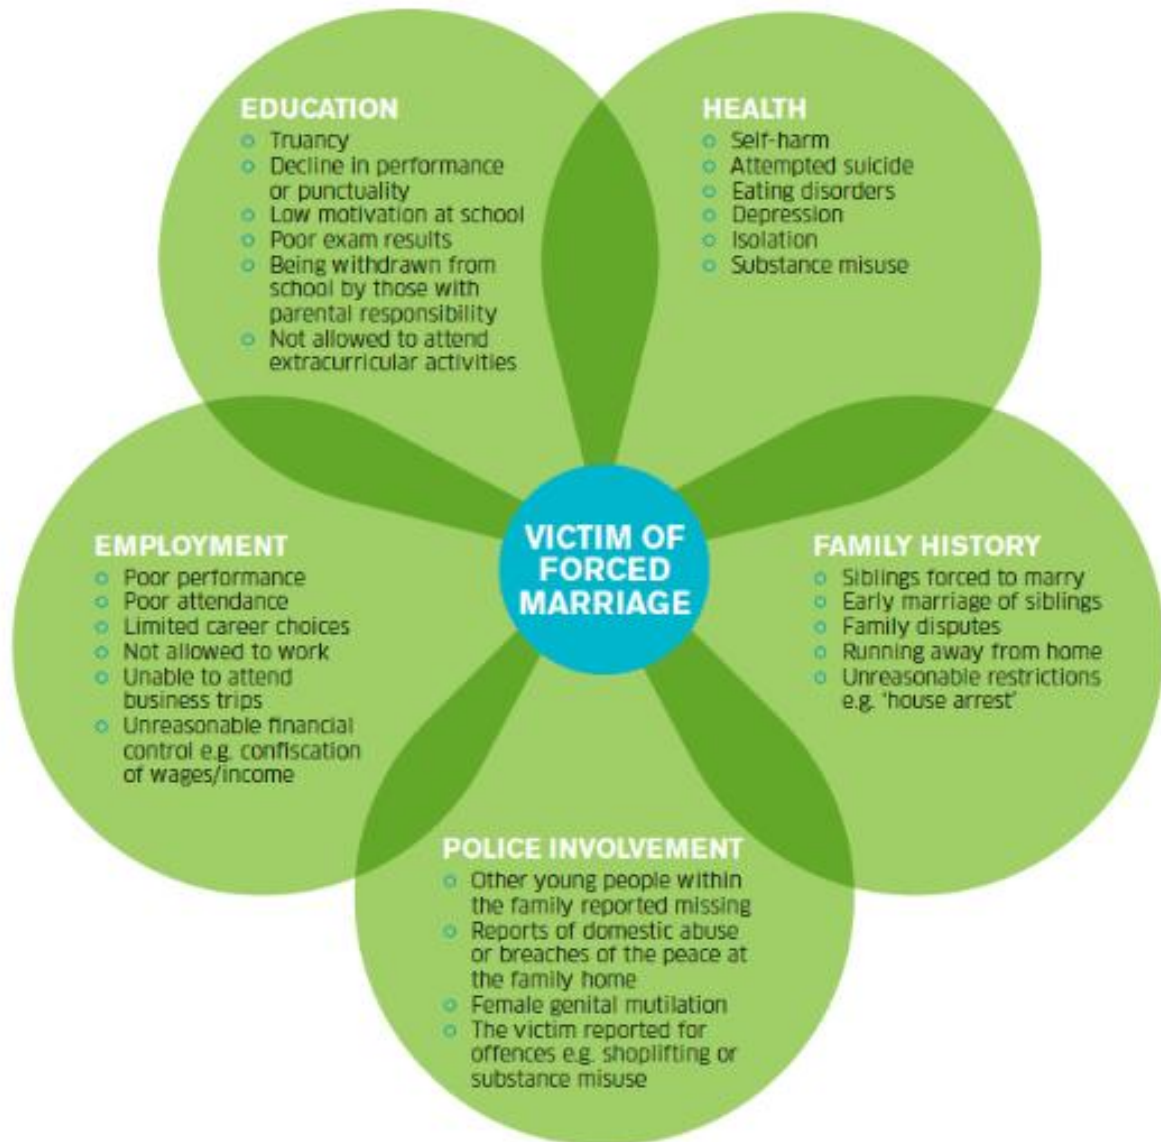

Forced Marriage Protection Orders (FMPO) are designed to prevent a forced marriage from occurring or to offer protective measures when a forced marriage has taken place. The court's powers are wide-ranging and the terms of the order can be tailored to the specific needs of the victim. Orders may contain prohibitions, restrictions or requirements to stop or change the conduct of those who would force the victim into marriage.

A FMPO can be

- granted by the civil sheriff courts for either a child or adult
- applied for by third parties (including local authorities) on a victim's behalf
- applied for by all other third parties, with leave of the court
- made by a civil court on its own initiative under certain circumstances
- applied for on behalf of the victim in criminal cases by the Lord Advocate, if the case has been referred by the court

If there are complexities associated with immigration status, nationality, dual nationality and whether the victim is in Scotland, elsewhere in the UK or overseas, the Forced Marriage Unit can be contacted for advice, as these complexities might affect how victims can be assisted.

Potential warning signs

In order to make sensitive and informed professional judgements about the child's or potential adult victim's needs, it is important that professionals are sensitive to differing family patterns and lifestyles, and to child-rearing patterns that vary across different racial, ethnic and cultural groups. At the same time, they must be clear that child abuse cannot be condoned for religious or cultural reasons – therefore, forced marriage must be responded to as a protection and safeguarding issue.

Key Practice Messages and checklist:

These following key messages and checklist are for frontline practitioners who have identified that forced marriage may be an issue. Forced marriage should always be referred to Social Care Direct as an adult protection or child protection issue, depending on the age of the victim.

Focus on safety and protection

- Always focus on the safety and protection of victims and avoid contributing to risk.
- Always take the issue and the concerns of the victim seriously and recognise the potential risk of significant harm to the victim; many practitioners underestimate, or find it hard to believe, the lengths that families go to in order to force a marriage and that families do kill in the name of 'honour'.
- DO NOT attempt family counselling, mediation, arbitration and reconciliation, if forced marriage is an issue; this can put a victim at further risk.
- DO NOT share information with family/friends/community members; and, as with all cases, only share information with other practitioners in your own or other agencies if it is necessary to protect victims.
- As with all records belonging to individuals, forced marriage cases should be kept secure to prevent unauthorised access by anyone other than those dealing directly with the case.

Checklist

You may only have one chance to speak to a potential victim of forced marriage, and therefore, only one chance to:

- see the victim on her/his own – even if s/he is accompanied by others
- see her/him immediately in a secure and private place where you will not be overheard
- reassure her/him that you will not give information to family/friends or community.
- take what s/he says seriously
- ensure an independent translator¹ is available if necessary

¹ There are risks in using interpreters so you should be cautious and ensure they are professional, independent and have no links with the community or victim's family. Make sure the interpreter understands that their role is to translate verbatim and not "interpret" the message or censor/omit any of the information.

- be aware a woman may not be allowed or willing to speak to a male worker alone
- recognise and respect her/his wishes
- obtain as much information as possible from her/him about the situation and the risks s/he faces.
- agree a way to contact her/him safely (for example, agree a code word)
- obtain full details and record these safely to pass on to Social Care Direct or the police
- explain all the options to her/him and their possible outcomes, as much as you are able
- give her/ him (or help her/him memorise) your contact details and/or those of a support agency, such as Shakti
- consider the need for immediate police involvement, protection and placement away from the family, and arrange this if necessary; this includes any action to stop her/him from being removed from the UK (please see FMU contact details below).

Contact Social Care Direct immediately if you become aware that forced marriage may be an issue. It is important not to contact the victim's friends/family, community or community leaders or attempt to mediate with them. How services will align with the family will be considered as part of the forced marriage multi-agency discussion, which will take place following the referral to Social Care Direct.

All forced marriage multi-agency case discussions will be recorded as IRDs on the eIRD system. If under 16, or under 18 and in full time education – child protection eIRD; if over 18 or aged 16-18 and not in full time education – adult protection eIRD.

Planning options from forced marriage case discussion – considerations could include: safe use of interpreters, locking down records, support from Shakti, or other relevant specialist agency, application for Forced Marriage Protection Order, initiation of further adult and child protection processes, identifying any other/younger siblings who may also be at risk, risk assessments and safety plan completed, travel/abduction precautions (passport details/dual passports/immigration status), Trigger Plan if child disappears, including list of all vehicles used by family, full details of extended family (addresses in UK and abroad), photograph of victim/DNA sample taken/details of distinguishing marks, details of school attended and school contact, establish regular safe contact.

Appendix One

Useful contacts for general advice and guidance:

All agencies should follow the procedure above if forced marriage cases are identified. However, the contacts below can provide general advice and guidance.

Scottish Government Forced Marriage Helpline

Forced Marriage Unit (FMU)

You should contact the FMU if you know or suspect that a child or adult victim is being taken out of Scotland or out of the UK. It can assist in alerting the police and authorities at points of departure so that the victim and those accompanying the victim can be prevented from leaving the UK.

Tel: 020 7008 0151 (Mon-Fri: 9am-5pm); Email: fmufco.gov.uk.
