1. Introduction

1.1 In September 2020 the Edinburgh Poverty Commission published their final report – A Just Capital. Their findings challenged the city to end poverty in Edinburgh by 2030, and to make sure that Edinburgh can be a city in which:

- “No one has to go without the basic essentials they need to eat, keep clean and stay warm and dry”.

To meet this goal, the Commission made seven calls to action for the city to deliver. Among these, the report called on City of Edinburgh Council, EVOG and local organisations to improve the co-ordination of support services for citizens experiencing food insecurity or at risk of poverty related hunger. In doing so, commissioners reported that:

- “Emergency food support should not become locked in as a fourth emergency service but serve as a gateway to other support that will ease isolation and build human connection and kindness where it has been lacking.”

In response to this call to action, Edinburgh Partnership committed to the development of a new strategy setting out the partnership responses needed to end poverty related hunger in Edinburgh.

This document sets out a draft of this strategy for consultation and further development. It describes a draft vision, principles, and outline actions needed to meet the challenge set by the Edinburgh Poverty Commission.

Developing the strategy

To develop this strategy a core working group led by officers from the City of Edinburgh Council and EVOG was established. This group has led a process of research and engagement including workshops with stakeholders, service providers and the End Poverty Edinburgh citizen’s group, data gathering and analysis.

This paper builds on the engagement carried out to date and sets out a draft strategy for further consultation and development. This consultation will run for 12 weeks and be promoted across partnership networks to encourage people from all parts of Edinburgh to give their views and opinions to help shape the final strategy.

Alongside this consultation, additional research will be undertaken to further understand and gather insights from the experiences of users of food support services.

Feedback from the consultation and the research will be used to further develop this strategy and the actions needed to end poverty-related hunger.

2. Scope and Strategic Context

This document is positioned within a strategic framework of plans and actions driving the structural changes needed to end poverty in Edinburgh and address all seven calls to action made by the Edinburgh Poverty Commission.

The purpose of this strategy is to focus on those on actions needed to address and prevent poverty related hunger in Edinburgh. Its scope relates to improving co-ordination, access, and impact of support for people experiencing food crisis, including:

- Cash first supports: Cash grants for people experiencing food crisis through statutory and third sector programmes. Cash first supports also include income maximisation and money advice services which aim to help prevent future need.
- Free or low-cost food provision: Food banks, food pantries, free meal projects (including delivery, takeaway, and van outreach services), healthy meal kits, and school breakfast clubs. In most cases these projects also promote access to cash first, advice and other supports alongside direct food provision.
- Community food initiatives: Including projects which provide support for wellbeing, skills, and capacity building alongside free or low-cost food provision. Projects include community meals, community cafes and food markets, cook clubs, cooking and nutrition courses, and skills development support.

Within this context, the strategy is developed as part of and in alignment to a number of other programmes underway to address poverty in Edinburgh. These include:

The Edinburgh Partnership Community Plan, and its three priority programmes to ensure people have enough money to live on, people have access to work, learning and training opportunities, and people have a good place to live. Associated key Edinburgh Partnership programmes aligned to this work include the development of Community Wealth Building approaches and Thriving Local Places, a re-shaping of the relationship between Edinburgh Partnership partners and city residents.

The City of Edinburgh Council Business Plan, which incorporates ending poverty by 2030 as one of three priorities for Council and includes a range of actions across place-making, housing, homelessness, education, income security, transport, and family support within its End Poverty in Edinburgh Delivery Plan.

Growing Locally, Edinburgh's first food growing strategy and its goals to tackle food insecurity and promote community wellbeing through food programmes across the city. The Edible Edinburgh Partnership is a key stakeholder in this work and its vision for good food to be accessible for all, is an important input into this strategy's development.

The Good Food Nation (Scotland) Bill, spans social and economic wellbeing, health, environment, and economic development and includes the aim that everyone in Scotland has ready access to the healthy, nutritious food they need. The principles and action areas in Scottish Government's ambition to end the need for foodbanks and Best Start, Bright Futures, its 2022-2026 Tackling Child Poverty Delivery Plan, and its vision for a wellbeing economy are also shared in the development of the current strategy.

3. Poverty related hunger in Edinburgh – the challenge

The findings from engagement activities carried out to date identify a number of key challenges for people in Edinburgh, and the food crisis networks established to provide support. A summary of these findings shows challenges relating to:

- High and rising need and demand: An estimated 30,000 adults went hungry due to a lack of money in Edinburgh in 2020. In 2022 the cost of living crisis is increasing the number of people in need of food support.
 - In April 2022, 13.8% of all UK households were considered to be in ‘food stress’ – not eating or skipping meals because they cannot afford or access food¹.
 - These are levels similar to those recorded in the early weeks of the first pandemic lockdown but represent a 57% increase in food stress since late 2021.
 - Citizen’s Advice Scotland note that page views for online advice around food banks and crisis support in Spring 2022 were almost double that of the previous year².
 - In Edinburgh, the Council Advice Shop notes a 20% increase in call volumes in the past month, with a significant increase in visits to ‘food advice’ support webpages.³
 - Food insecurity is more common among households with children. Across the UK, more than one in five (20.6 per cent) have faced moderate or severe food insecurity in the past six months, compared to 11.5% in the year prior to pandemic.
- Capacity and resources to respond to need: Even before recent increases in need, service providers were experiencing difficulties in securing the capacity needed to meet demand. The challenge of sourcing sustainable funding is common across providers. Third sector providers note the significant time and resources needed to pull together funding from multiple sources, as well as challenges in securing core funding or funding for more than one financial year. Such circumstances, providers note, provide a barrier to innovation, long-term planning, staff recruitment and retention, and collaboration across the food support community.
- These challenges have been exacerbated in recent months due to the increasing cost of supplies, difficulties accessing donations, and other supply chain challenges arising from the war in Ukraine, and ongoing impacts of Brexit.

- The need for a more strategic approach to commissioning and funding: Edinburgh Partnership members, The Council and Edinburgh Health and Social Care Partnership in particular, invest significant resources into a range of food support organisations and activities. The collective scale, range, and impact of this investment, however, is not well understood, nor is it guided by shared a policy objective or strategic framework.
- A need for improved partnership working and collaboration across the sector: Providers and stakeholders across the sector demonstrate a strong willingness and ability to collaborate effectively when need arises. There is a clear culture of partnership and innovation across organisations in Edinburgh working to address poverty related hunger.
- At the same time, however, while individual groups of organisations work well together, there is no single network or forum helping providers in all parts of the city to share knowledge, skills, and capacity, or to collaborate on opportunities for fund raising or project development. The lack of such a network also makes it more difficult to co-ordinate city wide responses, particularly in the face of current and future crises.
- Examples of food support networks in other local authorities have been identified as useful routes to help:
 - Understand and assess the effectiveness of support to address poverty related hunger
 - Develop and promote common principles across food support systems and improve alignment between different types of support (e.g., cash first, money advice and food bank services)
 - Share capacity and resources, including warehousing, skills, staff, and technical resources, and
 - Collaborate effectively to source external funding.
- Gaps in access, variability of standards: Work carried out to date highlights concerns over gaps and inconsistencies in the availability of support across the city. These include areas of the city which are under provided relative to need, lack of access to out of hours or weekend support, and inconsistent standards relating to issues such as food quality, nutrition, and hygiene, guidance on 'cash first' support, and the embedding of appropriate income maximisation advice, family and household support to prevent future need.
- Communication and awareness: Workshop participants, particularly those from the End Poverty Edinburgh citizen group, noted the need for improved promotion of food support available to people in Edinburgh. Local examples of promotion campaigns in areas such as west Edinburgh provide a useful model. Further work is needed to identify approaches across all parts of the city.

Questions for consultation:

- Do you agree these are the right challenges that a strategy to end poverty related hunger in Edinburgh needs to address?
- Is there anything missing? Is there anything you would add?
- Do you have any specific examples of how these challenges have affected you or the services you provide?

4. Draft vision and principles

Vision

In response to these challenges, partners have identified a draft vision to guide the work of the city. Edinburgh Partnership members should commit to ensuring that:

- No one in Edinburgh needs to go hungry due a lack of money, that
 - When do people fall into food crisis, Edinburgh networks aim to give a cash first approach to providing support
 - Where emergency food provision is needed, people can access wider support in ways that are safe, dignified, respectful, and prevent future need, and that
 - Community food initiatives are available in all parts of Edinburgh build people's wellbeing, improve skills and confidence, and help people access the supports they need to get by

What do we mean by 'Cash First'?

Food insecurity in Edinburgh is caused by too much poverty, not too little food. the evidence shows that the key drivers of food insecurity are income crises in a household caused by problems of access to and adequacy of social security benefits, low pay and insecure work, problem debt, and the rising cost of living.

To end poverty related hunger in Edinburgh, nothing is more important than improving access to an adequate and secure income.

Within this context, a 'cash first' approach means that people who are experiencing food insecurity have the opportunity to access:

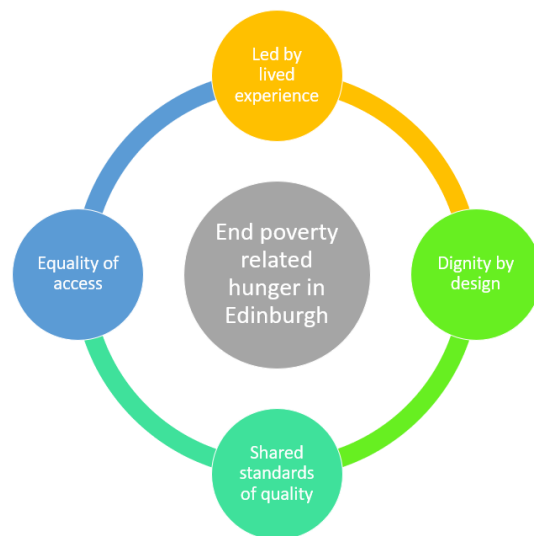

- Available crisis fund support to help them afford the food they need (via Scottish Welfare Fund, Hardship Fund, and third sector operated crisis funds), and
- Are able to access advice and support to help them maximise their income, manage debts, access available benefit entitlements, and improve employment prospects.

In a cash first approach, local partners commit to doing all they can to offer such supports at the first point of contact for people in immediate food crisis. Where direct help to access food is required – via foodbanks, food pantries, or community meals this is provided in a way that maximises dignity and reduces future need. This means ensuring that the offer of ongoing support to maximise income and manage money problems is made alongside and embedded into every food support service.

Principles

Delivery of this vision should be guided by four core principles to which all partners and stakeholders are committed.

- Led by lived experience: The design and review of programmes to end poverty related hunger should be done with and alongside people who have lived experience of food crisis and have relied upon emergency food support in Edinburgh.

- Dignity by design: Shame and stigma are key barriers that stop people from seeking help when in a food crisis.

People's experience of getting help and the way support is provided can make a significant difference to whether a person is able to avoid future crisis.

Dignity by design in approaches to poverty related hunger means ensuring that people can access the support they need:

- In trusted places where they feel safe and comfortable, are treated with kindness
 - In ways that make sure there are no wrong doors and no handoffs. Relationships are at the heart of the response and people have choice and control over the support they receive
 - Through holistic support that aims to help people build resilience and move on from poverty, as well as dealing with immediate crisis needs
 - Through responses that are flexible enough to meet the needs of local communities and respects local knowledge about what works, and
 - In ways that ensure the needs of priority groups are recognised and addressed.
- Shared standards of quality: Programmes to end poverty related hunger in Edinburgh should aim to meet common, shared standards of quality in:
 - Providing access to good quality, nutritious food that meets cultural needs and food hygiene standards
 - Ensuring staff and volunteers are supported and trained to appropriate standards

- Ensuring cash first, income maximisation and other advice supports are offered and available to people and are of a required agreed standard, and
- Support is simple to access and swift to respond.
- Equality of access: People in all parts of Edinburgh, from all communities should be able to access support when they need it. Partners in Edinburgh should work towards a principle of ensuring:
 - Appropriate levels of food crisis support are accessible in all areas of the city
 - Delivery of food crisis support recognises and addresses physical and digital barriers to access, as well as the need for availability in evenings and weekends
 - The provision, promotion, and communication of the support available is co-ordinated across the city so that people know how and where to get support

Questions for consultation:

- Do you agree with the vision set out in this draft strategy?
- Are these the right principles to guide the work of the Edinburgh Partnership?
- Is there anything missing? Is there anything you would add?
- Do you have any specific examples of how these principles can be applied in practice?
- If you are a user of food support services, how important are these principles to you?

5. Proposed Actions

Engagement and analysis carried out to date suggests five proposed areas of action for Edinburgh Partnership members and stakeholders to prioritise. Throughout the consultation period for this draft strategy further work will be undertaken to further develop and agree these actions, including phasing and resourcing needed for delivery.

Draft Actions for Implementation
Improve networking and collaboration	Build on existing partnership structures to establish an Edinburgh Food Poverty Network (EFPN) with a remit to:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Bring together organisations working to end poverty related hunger in Edinburgh
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Improve understanding of shared challenges and opportunities
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Engage with citizens with lived experience and collaborate in the design of projects and programmes
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Share best practice, understand, and monitor the effectiveness of interventions and supports
Maximise capacity and secure sustainable resources	Through the proposed EFPN and other networks, partners should:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Seek ways to share capacity and resources more efficiently across partner and stakeholder organisations (including food, skills, technical resources, warehousing)
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop improved referral pathways and communication routes across partners to maximise the impact of available capacity
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Consider options for commissioning processes to deliver greater security of funding for organisations
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Collaborate on development of proposals to secure external funding for projects aligned to this strategy

Draft Actions for Implementation

Set agreed standards and principles	Through the proposed EFPN and other networks, partners should:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify the standards for food and support - spanning quality, nutrition, and hygiene - which will underpin provision across the city
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify the actions needed to communicate and embed these standards, including staff training and support
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop agreed standards and working principles for ensuring that 'cash first' and advice supports are available throughout food crisis supports.
Improve accessibility of support by addressing gaps in provision	Through the proposed EFPN and other networks, partners should:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Improve understanding of gaps in current provision, and collaborate on solutions
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Seek ways to ensure that citizens in all areas of the city have swift and easy access to the full range of supports needed (including cash first, crisis food support, and community-based food and wellbeing initiatives)
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Improve data collection and monitoring of impact to ensure that supports are accessible to all communities and groups in the city
Improve communication and awareness	Through the proposed EFPN and other networks, partners should:
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop a communication strategy to ensure that people (citizens and staff) know where and how to get help, embedding stigma-free messaging
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explore options to develop an accessible information hub providing access to the full range of food support resources in all areas of the city

Questions for consultation:

- Are these the right actions for Edinburgh Partnership and stakeholders to focus on?
- Is there anything missing? Is there anything you would add?
- What challenges do you foresee in implementing these actions?
- And what opportunities should partners take advantage of?
