PLANNING APPLICATION

FLAT 131/2 MONTGOMERY STREET EH7 5EP

Change of use from residential to short term-lettings use

11th May 2022

PLANNING, DESIGN AND ACCESS STATEMENT

Introduction

This application relates to the proposal to change the use of a two bedroom tenement flat into a short-term let use.

Location of site

The property is on the first floor a typical 4 floor late Victorian tenement building in the far eastern end of the Edinburgh New Town. The flat is situated above a ground floor office use, which is currently used as a solicitor and estate agent's office. There is no residential use below the application property.

Pedestrian access to the tenement building is via a communal door on Montgomery Street. The office use on the ground floor is accessed by a door on the corner of Montgomery Street and Easter Road. The flat, the subject of this application wraps around the corner of the building and has a feature corner bay window which affords long views up Easter Road and along Montgomery Street.

Easter Road

This road is subjected to very heavy and noisy traffic through most of the day, forming a principal link between Edinburgh and Leith to the north. For the last few years and more years to come, Easter Road forms the main link to Leith as Leith Walk is semi closed due to ongoing tram works. The road is a very busy bus route. The buses going south towards Edinburgh are quite often held in a queue, adjacent to this property, before negotiating the nearby junction of Easter Road and London Road at the top of the hill. This fact together with very heavy other traffic using Easter Road means that the noise, disturbance and the high levels of air pollution distract from the amenity of the residential neighbourhood.

On the more positive side this top end of Easter Road has numerous former retail units which are now independent bakers, coffee bars, restaurants, wine merchant, green grocer, supermarkets, ATMs etc which are an asset to residents and visitors alike.

Easter Road lies outside the Controlled Parking Zones of Edinburgh but is subject to parking restrictions.

Montgomery Street

This residential street is also quite heavily trafficked by cars and commercial vehicle finding alternate routes to Leith and Edinburgh between Leith Walk and Easter Road. Outside the property in question are a number of 'end on' parking bays, which are available for non-residents subject to weekday pay and display. The whole of Montgomery Street lies within the City of Edinburgh Controlled Parking Zone N1.

Outside the main door of 131 Montgomery Street is a paved 'environmental area' with refuse bins and two telephone boxes. This area has suffered from noise and disturbance from misuse, as Edinburgh Police can testify.

Development Plan

The development plan consists of the 2013 Strategic Development Plan and the 2016 Edinburgh Local Development Plan. The most relevant local development plan policy is Hou 7 which safeguards against inappropriate development, including changes of use, in residential areas which would have materially detrimental effects on the living conditions of residents. The intention of Policy Hou 7, set out in paragraph 234 of the local development plan, is to safeguard against incompatible non-residential uses.

The property is a two bedroom flat adjacent to Easter Road and highly accessible to public transport. The flat could accommodate one to four people. The busy mixed-use environment and its heightened ambient noise is close to the property. This location is not a quiet residential street.

The common access stairwell serves 9 flats. Parking and communal bins are available on street. The council have intimated recently in decisions that the use of short-term accommodation is not acceptable 'in principle' in similar locations. Yet there is no policy basis in the development plan for such an 'in principle' constraint.

The size of the flat would not indicate 'party flat' and the scale of the movement amongst 9 other flats would not go beyond what could be expected within a shared stairwell environment.

Concern has been expressed elsewhere that people letting the property would come and go frequently at night, and may have less regard for neighbour's amenity thus generating unacceptable noise. However, there is little evidence to suggest that such a limited number of visitors (one to four) would have less regard for neighbours in this location. There are no complaints regarding noise or any other issues from the ongoing use of the flat during the past 4 years that it has been operating as a short-term let. There has been no evidence of harm since the operation of the short-term let started. There is no reason to assume that the scale of disturbance from a two bedroom property and its comings and goings and servicing would clearly disturb neighbours any more than would be expected from time to time within the dense communal living environment of 9 properties. There is no reason why the nature of communal living within the stairwell would change.

In summary, the proposed use for short-term lets would not be contrary to Policy Hou 7, since the use would not have a materially detrimental effect on nearby residents in this busy urban location.

Tourism in Edinburgh

The applicant wishes to point out the proposed use is seen as adding to the mixed use of the building and to enhance the neighbourhood, bring tourists out of the city centre and supporting local businesses that have grown reliant on tourist revenue from short-term lets. It is recognised that tourism is a significant source of economic activity in Edinburgh.

Planning Balance

In all the circumstances, the proposed development accords overall with the relevant provisions of the development plan and that there are no material considerations which would prevent a grant of planning consent.

Objections 3. Support 16

It has not been possible to read the contents of these representations, as they are not made publicly available on the planning applications website. Presumably these will be made available to the Government appeal service on request. We do know, however, that numerous letters of support for the change of use have been received from near neighbours and local businesses

Planning Balance

In all the circumstances, the proposed development accords overall with the relevant provisions of the development plan. There are no material considerations which should inhibit a grant of planning consent.
